Home Secretary Elected President of Dail Eireann Without Opposition

DRAMATIC MEETING

Member Ejected After Scene—De Valera Fails To Appear

Dublin, Sept. 9.—Eamonn DeValera commander in chief of the Irish Republican Irregulars, failed to put in appearance today when the new Dail Eireann (Free state parliament) convened for the first session. Prof. Hayes was elected speaker, succeeding Prof. MacNeill.

William T. Cosgrave, home secretary and acting secretary for foreign affairs, was elected president of the Dail Eireann succeeded the late Arthur Griffith. Cosgrave had no opposition.

Although a number of members who are in sympathy with DeValera consulted together and decided to attend the sessions, only Laurence Ginnel showed up at the first meeting. He created a scene when he refused to sign the membership roll.

"I charge that this Dail Eireann is the instrument of the British government," shouted Ginnell. He was ruled out of order, but continued his speech.

"I challenge the authority of this body," cried Ginnell.

Finally the recalcitrant member was forcibly ejected.

The new Dail Eireann (Irish Free State parliament) convened today for the first session under the dramatic circumstances. Leinster Hall was under heavy guard of troops to prevent attacks by the irregulars.

On the eve of the meeting Free State troops began a series of raids, rounding up large numbers of guerillas and capturing quantities of munitions.

Irregulars attempted an ambush attack against the guards of the Clifden wireless station but were repulsed.

The Irish censorship has been lifted.

The gathering of the Dail, at a time when the free state army is engaged in war against the irregulars, who support a republic, aroused national interest. Large crowds were gathered in the streets flanking Leinster Hall long before the hour for the meeting.

The dail's peace policy is being worked out and will be announced some time next week, according to present plans. It provides amnesty for all the irregulars who lay down their arms and promise to support the free state constituion. Heavy penalties will be imposed upon those who continue under arms against the state.

Prof. MacNeill, speaker of the old dail eireann has announced his intention of retiring. It is expected he will be succeeded by Prof. Hayes., a well known parliamentarian.

CINCINNATI MAN IS CONVICTED OF SLAYING POLICEMAN

Wilmington, O., Sept. 9—Roy Mack McKinney, Cincinnati, was found to be guilty of first degree murder of Emery McCreight, night policeman, the jury returning its verdict at 4:40 yesterday afternoon after deliberation of three hours. McKinney received the announcement of the verdict without emotion. though his wife wept hysterically. McKinney has remained calm throughout the trial, despite the fact that his life has been at stake.

The jury retired at 1:32 o'clock.

McKinney and "Jim Bill" Reno were jointly indicted for the first degree murder of Emery McCreight on the night of February 14 last. McCreight and Patrolman Henry Adams saw two men trying to break into the rear of the Murphy-Benham hardware store, North South street. When a flashlight was thrown on the burglars, one of them fired instantly, fatally wounding McCreight, who died the following day.

HOUSE TO ADJOURN SEPTEMBER 18

Washington, Sept. 9.—House leaders planned today for an adjournment early in the week of September 18. They have cleared the legislative program so far as it rests with the house during the coming week.

The date of adjournment rests with the senate. Conferences today between house and senate leaders failed to develop a day certain on which an adjournment could be taken.

Among the bills that the senate wishes to pass before ending the mid summer session are the libertan loan and the additional judges bill. Each of the measurer is meeting opposition and either or both will be abandoned if it develops that the fight on them shall grow hot.

RAIL PEACE NOW RESTS WITH SHOPS UNIONS AS PLAN IS NEGOTIATED

Program Expected To Be Adopted By Roads Aggregating More Than 85,000 Miles of Track as a Start off No Obstacle Forecast.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—The text of the final rail strike peace agreement negotiated by B. M. Jewell, and rail executives, as the "separate peace" plan was today in the hands of the shopcrafts chiefs for action.

The plan, it is expected, will be adopted by railroads aggregating more than 85,000 miles of track as a start off, while no obstacle to union acceptance of the plan is seen.

While no definite decision is expected until the members of the union's policy committee of 90 meet here on Monday, an informal conference of the shopmen's leaders today was expected to have an important bearing on the ultimate action.

Yesterday, representatives of sixty railroads, controlling one fourth of the nation's mileage, in the secret meeting here adopted the settlement plan.

Formal notice of the acceptance has been given B. M. Jewell, and the ending of the strike on these rail roads at least, now rests almost entirely with the shopcrafts policy committee. If the policy committee grants Jewell authority to negotiate separate settlements the strike will be settled speedily on these roads and transportation tie ups on 85,000 miles of track removed.

The roads agreeing to the plan included nearly all of the 52 roads which originally balked at the die-hard attitude taken at the recent New York conference. The roads which yesterday served notice would not take part in the peace plans were:

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Union Pacific; Santa Fe; Northern Pacific; Illinois Central; Chicago and Alton; Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

The powerful Santa Fe and Union Pacific organizations have joined with the Pennsylvania and other lines in organizing new "unions" of employes' organizations. The Chicago and Alton is in the hands of a federal receiver and does not have to worry about the strike. The other lines claim to have obtained sufficient men to run their shops and keep transportation near normal. The Rock Island and Nickel Plate lines have deferred action for the present but it is believed the roads will fall in line and make separate peace agreements if the leaders in the movement sign up.

At yesterday's secret meeting of the executives here the chief changes in nthe settlement plans discussed were in the seniority and settlement commission sections.. The commission to settle all disputes will be made up of five rail executives and five shopcrafts officials. The New York plan called for five men from the big four brotherhoods as the union representatives. The seniority change puts all men—old and new at work, while the New York plan simply stipulated that the strikers should receive their senority privileges regardless of the effect on the new men.

It was stated today that S. Davis Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line and Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railroad reach here today or tomorrow to join Daniel Willad, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, in lining up more roads.

Mr. Warfield who heads an association of owners of $13,000,000,000 in railroad securities was one of the prime movers in the peace negotiations.

CORONER MAKES EFFORT TO LOCATE PAIR WHO REPORTED ALLEGED HOLDUP; NEXT MOVE IN SHOOTING CASE TO BE INQUEST

Father of Slain Youth Will Await Result of Hearing Tuesday Before Taking Any Action—Boys Expected to Tell Sensational Story.

Events in the tragic shooting of Tuesday night in which one boy was killed and three wounded, which have been piling over each other since the shooting, were practically marking time Saturday while officials were preparing for the coroner's inquest Tuesday morning and an aroused countryside was awaiting official action.

In the meantime an effort is being made by the coroner's office to locate the man and woman who came to this city after "failing" for the playful ruse by which the boys were amusing themselves on the Wilmington pike. Officials say the evidence of the couple would be most valuable if introduced at the inquest Tuesday morning.

In connection with the search for this man and woman Dr. R. L. Haines, county coroner, issued the following statement Friday night: "The individual, who reported the supposed hold-up to Officer Simms is not a man unless he comes forward and supplies the coroner with his name and the evidence which he gave that night." Authorities say they were strangers and that neither the names nor the number of the automobile were taken by the officers.

Farmers who live in the vicinity of the tragic shooting say they noticed the machine, occupied by a man and woman, pass the place where the boys had left an automobile tire tied to a wire, as part of a boyish prank. They say the couple drove past the tire several times, each time turning a short distance after passing and driving back. The last time the machine turned, it faced toward Xenia, with the woman driving and the man standing on the running board, and leaning forward to pick up the tire. When it was jerked from his grasp by the boys hidden in ambush, the machine continued toward Xenia without again stopping.

Persons who arrived at the scene shortly after the shooting say that a man and woman were sitting in a machine back of the sheriff's car during the firing. It is believed that it was this couple that promised to take Voiney Nichols to this city following the sheriff's car with the other two injured boys, but which it is believed, never came to this city, after it was learned that the boy had died. It is also believed to have been the couple that reported the incident and that the man and woman followed the officers in their own car and stopped at the scene. No trace of them has since been found, and rumors that they are known are discredited by authorities.

That startling evidence will be brought forth at the inquest Tuesday morning, is indicated in the stories told by youths involved in the shooting. The story of Warren Middleton, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Middleton of the Wilmington pike, who is at McClellan Hospital suffering with a serious wound in the left arm below the elbow, is expected to disclose a new version. He is said to be prepared to tell his interviewers, when they take his testimony at his bedside at Espey Hospital, that he was under shelter when the first five or six shots were fired, and that a pause followed, during which the officers shouted to the boys to come forward and surrender. He said at that command he stood up and presented a clear view of himself, but that as if his movements was a signal for further firing, the shots again rang out one of them striking his left arm. A burn on the left breast indicated that a second bullet came near to striking the youth, so close that the flesh was seared.

That a charge of murder in the first degree will be filed against the officers if no action is forthcoming from the inquest Tuesday, was the indication of Logan Nichols, father of the slain youth, and other residents of the neighborhood Saturday. However all of these men are content to mark time for the present, in the belief that the evidence brought out at the inquest will insure such a charge without an outside affidavit. Petitions asking for the removal of the sheriff were said to be in circulation Saturday, but the report could not be verified. Mr. Nichols said Saturday that the men interested in prosecuting action against the officers would probably interview a Dayton attorney Monday in regard to engaging him, but there was also indication Saturday that a local attorney would be called into the case by the men.

Logan Nichols, father of the two boys struck by the bullets from the officers' guns, one of whom died, was hurt by the published statement that he had said he was "going to shoot it out with the sheriff." "Such a thing never came into my mind," he said Saturday. "I want the law enforced honestly in this case, and that is all." As far as action on the part of the neighbors is concerned, it will not be attempted, it was indicated Saturday, unless he coroner's verdict following the inquest, should clear the officers of any charge. They will then prosecute the case themselves, it was intimated.

UP TO RAILROADS.

Washington, Sept. 9.—The problem of supplying soft coal to the ultimate consumer is now in the hands of the railroads, the U. S. geological survey declared this afternoon in making public figures on the production of coal in the week ending September 2. Some mines have reported as much as 89.6 per cent of their full time capacity has been lost because of transportation difficulties and the survey declared that "the limiting factor in the supply of soft coal has now become transportation."

Below. Gen. H.H. Bandholtz

Brigadier General Harry H. Bandholtz is reported to be slated to succeed Major General Leonard Wood retired, when the latter leaves his post as Governor General of the Philippines to become head of the University of Pennsylvania. General Bandholtz is a close personal friend of Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippine Senate. He was Inspector of the Constabulary in Quezon's province when Quenzon was Provincial Governor.

FORMAL OPENING OF G. O. P. CAMPAIGN SET FOR OCTOBER

Place Not Yet Selected For Convention to Open Drive.

Columbus, Sept. 9.—Formal opening of the Republican state campaign so far as speaking is concerned, will take place during the first week in October, at some central Ohio city yet to be selected, it has been announced by Chairman W. Miller, of the Republican campaign committee following a meeting which lasted throughout yesterday afternoon. Youngstown, which has been consdered for the meeting was dismissed, as it was decided that point should be selected which would be accessible from all parts of the state.

Headquarters will be opened in the Ferris building Sept. 18, and immediately thereafter a meeting of the central and executive committees will be held. Prior to this date all candidates on the state ticket will be called into consultation by Chairman Miller, Governor Harry L. Davis and W. E. Halley, cerk of the senate, were appointed additional members to the campaign committee. Another woman member will be named within the next few days, it was announced.

SWEETZER LEADING EVANS AT END OF EIGHTEENTH HOLE

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 9.—Jesse Sweetzer, of the Siwanoy club, New York present metropolitan champion, continued to forge his way toward the national amateur golf championship today when he led the wise cunning and brilliant Chick Evans, Chicago, veteran three holes at the end of their morning round in the 36 hole contest for the title.

Sweetzer has been the surprise of the tournament. He looked dangerous in the first round of match play when he knocked off Willie Hunter, former British amateur champion without having hardly a workout. Then he gave Jesse Guilford, Woodland star, and last year's champion a drubbing and in the semi-finals he was just as hard on Bobby Jones.

COX ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 9.—Former Gov. Jmes M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic endidate for president against president Harding, arrived from abrod today on the French liner Paris.

"Germany is in a pitable state." Mr. Cox said. "Hoover should be sent abroad to act as liason officer between Germany may begain to recover prosperity."

MRS. WARREN G. HARDING HOVERING BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH SATURDAY

Condition of "First Lady of the Land" Described as Critical and Fears Expressed That She May Not Recover—Operation Planned.

Washington, Sept. —Surrounded by a staff of five physicians, Mrs. Warren G. Harding was waging a valient fight for life in the White House this afternoon.

There has been very ltttle change in her condition since early this morning, according to the attending physicians and her chances for recovery were still considered in grave doubt early this afternoon.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding is hovering between life and death at the White House this morning.

Shortly after nine o'clock this morning, it was officially announced at White House that Mrs. Harding had a "fairly good night" and that her condition was "as favorable as could be expected.

At the same hour, the gates of the White House were ordered closed to visitors—for the first time since Mrs. Harding entered the White House on March 4, 1921. She expressly ordered them opened at that time.

President Harding cancelled all engagements today and remained with Mrs. Harding at the White House.

Her condition was described by the attending physicians today as "extremely critical" and fears were privately expressed that she may not recover. . . . . .

An immediate operation may be resorted to, Dr. Charles Mayo is speeding to ashington from Rochester, Minn., but probably will reach the White House before tomorrow morning. An operation may become necessary before that time, it was said.

The president remained at Mrs. Harding's bedside throughout the night, retiring for a few hours rest only after dawn broke this morning. Attorney General Daugherty and Comptroller of the Currency Crissiger of Marion were also at the White House until very late.

Three physicians remained at the executive mansion throughout the night—Dr. John Finney of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore; Dr. Charles E Sawyer, Mrs. Harding's personal physician and his son, Dr. Carl E. Sawyer of Marion. They fought an all night battle to save the life of their patient. Dr. George T. Harding, brother of the president has been summoned from Columbus, and will arrive this morning.

The rapid development of her illness, which dates back a week ago, was described by attending physicians today as hydronephrosis in an acute form. For ten years, Mrs. Harding has been a sufferer from chronic kidney trouble. This old trouble was aggravated a few days ago by a severe cold. She has also been under considerable strain, according to her friends, because of worry over the industrial situation in which she has taken a deep and constant interest.

Early this morning it was learned from attending physicians that the patient was being eased by continuous use of hot applications which induced perspiration.

Attorney General Daugherty, a close personal friend of the Hardings for years, returned to the White House at 7 o'clock this morning. After a visit to the sick room, he said:

"Mrs. Harding spent a restful night. I think she has a chance of recovery."

It is understood that opiates were being administered this morning. The attending physicians described Mrs. Haridng's spirit as "indomitable."

Belief Prevails That 47 Entombed Miners Live

Tests Made by Chemical Engineer Establish Fact That There Are No Corpses In Argonaut Mine—Rescue Work Continues.

Jackson, Cal., Sept. 9.That the forty-seven miners entombed at the bottom of the main shaft of the Argonaut gold mine, nearly one mile under ground are alive today. after 13 days elapsed since they were first trapped by fire, is the belief of Dr. H. L. Buschak, consulting chemical tests made in the Muldoon chemical tests madee in the muldoon shaft established the fact that there are no corpses in the Argonaut mine.

With the declaration of the chemical engineer came optimistic statements from mine officials. They stated it was their belief that the men were alive, basing their belief on the chemical tests taken at the bulkhead.

2400 feet level of the Muldoon shaft. And the first time since the beginning of the fire the non-presence of poisonous gases was noted by exhaustive chemical analysis they said.

Rescue parties working on the 3,600 foot level of the adjoining Kennedy shaft reported they had reached an uncharted bulkhead, presumably erected during a previous fire. It is believed this bulkhead served to check the flood of water used in extinguishing this fire and that better progress will be made beyond the bulkhead toward the 75 foot wall of quartz separating the two mines than has been possible before because of the fallen timbering and muck encountered in reaching the

SEEK 21 MORE INDICTED MEN IN MINE CASE

Score Are Charged With Conspiracy to Murder 19 Victims.

FIFTY EIGHT INDICTED

Grand Jury Adjourns Unti. September 18 to Sift Evidence.

Marion, Ills., Sept. 9.—Twenty-one more indicted men today were the objects of search by special deputy sheriffs who are scattered through the coal region carrying out the mandates of the special grand jury that is investigating the Herrin massacre of June 22 when nineteen men were shot and beaten to death after a raid on the Lester strip mine.

The 21 were charged yesterday with conspiracy to murder the 19 victims. With them were charged the 37 alleged murderers, eleven of whom were in jail last night, who were named in murder indictments Thursday in three of the deaths. All 58 are joined in a second indictment charging rioting. Twelve other true bills levelled at the twenty-seven alleged killers of J. H. Shoemaker, named in an indictment yesterday contain various groupings of names on the same charge. This method was adopted, according to Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, so that the state could go to trial with one group at a time.

Immediately after the return, the grand jury adjourned until September 18. The primary purpose of the recess was to enable the prosecution to sift the new mass of evidence developed by the grand jury. Another reason was that the Williamson county fair opens here on Tuesday and great crowds of miners are expected to attend.

Those named in the most recent true bills charging conspiracy to murder and the act of rioting are Gerald Bernard, Simon Hiller, Noble Bell, Louis Corlan, Charles Hancock, M. Craig, William Travelstead, V. R. Wilson, Henry Skeltcher, Bill Gulledge, William Sellers, Darbie Babington, One Brookhouse, Sam Catone, Jesse Childers, Orrie Kirby, Earl Baxter, Bill Olander, One Hastings. Fred Cooper and Lee Herron.

Warrants were issued at once on orders of Judge DeWitt T. Hartwell and special deputies started at once to join those who were already searching the coal region for the alleged murderers.

Any doubts that might have existed as to the intentions of the grand jury were removed by a formal statement issued by Foreman John Stewart and William H. Kimmell, a fruit grower, who said that his service on the jury was costing him twenty-five dollars a day loss through his inability to market his peaches.

The statement declared that the grand jury intends to go into the acts of William J. Lester and the Southern Illinois coal company and the deaths of three union men, as well as the massacre.

ST. JOHN TO REMAIN AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Columbus, Sept. 9.—Settlement of a recent controversy at the Ohio State University which threatened for a time to cause an upheaval in the physical education department, was seen in the announcement made yesterday that the board of trustees of the university had decided not to separate the department into two sections this year. L. W. t. John, director of athletics is to remain in charge of the department, the board announced.

The controversy started when the board of trustees announced after an earlier meeting that they had voted for the separation of the physical education into two independent sections this year. L. W. St. John, direceach. Such a move meant divided power, also, according to Mr. St. John, who immediately announced that he would resign if such a move was carried into effect. He later decided that he would stay with the school, no matter what the action the board might take.

ITALY ASKS SUSPENSION OF GREEK-TURK WARFARE

Washington, Sept. 9—The arrival of the American destroyers Litchfield and Simpson at Smyrna and the return of the destroyer Parrott to Constantinople was reported to the navy department today by Rear Admiral Mark Bristol, the American high commissioner at Constantinople

Rome, Sept. 9.—Italy has sent notes to Athens and Angora asking the Greeks and Turks to suspend further hostilities pending the opening of the proposed peace conference at Venice, it was learned today. Indications are that the end of the war is at hand as the Greeks are repored to be in flight from Asia Minor.

As far as action on the part of the neighbors is concerned, it will not be attempted, it was indicated Saturday, unless he coroner's verdict following the inquest, should clear the officers of any charge. They will then prosecute the case themselves. It was intimated.

UP TO RAILROADS.

Washington, Sept. 9.—The problem of supplying soft coal to the ultimate consumer is now in the hands of the railroads, the U. S. geological survey declared this afternoon in making public figures on the production of coal in the week ending September 2. Some mines have reported as much as 89.6 per cent of their full time capacity has been lost because of transportation difficulties and the survey declared that "the limiting factor in the supply of soft coal has now become transportation."

GENERAL BANDHOLTZ MAY SUCCEED WOOD

Below, Gen. H. H. Bandholtz

Brigadier General Harry H. Bandholtz is reported to be slated to succeed Major General Leonard Wood retired, when the latter leaves his post as Governor General of the Philippines to become head of the University of Pennsylvania. General Bandholtz is a close personal friend of Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippine Senate. He was Inspector of the Constabulary in Quezon's province when Quenzon was Provincial Governor.

SWEETZER LEADING EVANS AT END OF EIGHTEENTH HOLE

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 9.—Jesse Sweetzer, of the Siwanoy club, New York present metropolitan champion, continued to forge his way toward the national amateur golf championship today when he led the wise cunning and brilliant Chick Evans, Chicago, veteran three holes at the end of their morning round in the 36 hole contest for the title.

Sweetzer has been the surprise of the tournament. He looked dangerous in the first round of match play when he knocked off Willie Hunter, former British amateur champion without having hardly a workout. Then he gave Jesse Guilford, Woodland star, and last year's champion a drubbing and in the semi-finals he was just as hard on Bobby Jones.

COX ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 9.—Former Gov. Jmes M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic cndidate for president against president Harding, arrived from abrod today on the French liner Paris.

"Germany is in a pitable state." Mr. Cox said. "Hoover should be sent abroad to act as liason officer between Germany may begain to recover prosperity."

MRS. WARREN G. HARDING HOVERING BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH SATURDAY

Condition of "First Lady of the Land" Described as Critical and Fears Expressed That She May Not Recover—Operation Planned.

Washington, Sept. —Surrounded by a staff of five physicians, Mrs. Warren G. Harding was waging a valient fight for life in the White House this afternoon.

There has been very little change in her condition since early this morning, according to the attending physicians and her chances for recovery were still considered in grave doubt early this afternoon.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding is hovering between life and death at the White House this morning.

Shortly after nine o'clock this morning, it was officially announced at White House that Mrs. Harding had a "fairly good night" and that her condition was "as favorable as could be expected.

At the same hour, the gates of the White House were ordered closed to visitors—for the first time since Mrs. Harding entered the White House on March 4, 1921. She expressly ordered them opened at that time.

President Harding cancelled all engagements today and remained with Mrs. Harding at the White House.

Her condition was described by the attending physicians today as "extremely critical" and fears were privately expressed that she may not recover. . . . . .

An immediate operation may be resorted to, Dr. Charles Mayo is speeding to ashington from Rochester, Minn., but probably will reach the White House before tomorrow morning. An operation may become necessary before that time, it was said.

The president remained at Mrs. Harding's bedside throughout the night, retiring for a few hours rest only after dawn broke this morning.

Attorney General Daugherty and Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger of Marion were also at the White House until very late.

Three physicians remained at the executive mansion throughout the night—Dr. John Finney of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore; Dr. Charles E Sawyer, Mrs. Harding's personal physician and his son, Dr. Carl E. Sawyer of Marion. They fought an all night battle to save the life of their patient. Dr. George T. Harding, brother of the president has been summoned from Columbus, and will arrive this morning.

The rapid development of her illness, which dates back a week ago, was described by attending physicians today as hydronephrosis in an acute form. For ten years, Mrs. Harding has been a sufferer from chronic kidney trouble. This old trouble was aggravated a few days ago by a severe cold. She has also been under considerable strain, according to her friends, because of worry over the industrial situation in which she has taken a deep and constant interest.

Early this morning it was learned from attending physicians that the patient was being eased by continuous use of hot applications which induced perspiration.

Attorney General Daugherty, a clost personal friend of the Hardings for years, returned to the White House at 7 o'clock this morning. After a visit to the sick room, he said: "Mrs. Harding spent a restful night. I think she has a chance of recovery."

It is understood that opiates were being administered this morning. The attending physicians described Mrs. Harding's spirit as "indomitable."

Belief Prevails That 47 Entombed Miners Live

Tests Made by Chemical Engineer Establish Fact That There Are No Corpses In Argonaut Mine—Rescue Work Continues.

Jackson, Cal., Sept. 9. That the forty-seven miners entombed at the bottom of the main shaft of the Argonaut gold mine, nearly one mile under ground are alive today, after 13 days elapsed since they were first trapped by fire, is the belief of Dr. H. L. Buschak, consulting chemical tests made in the Muldoon chemical tests madee in the muldoon shaft established the fact that there are no corpses in the Argonaut mine.

With the declaration of the chemical engineer came optimistic statements from mine officials. They stated it was their belief that the men were alive, basing their belief on the chemical tests taken at the 2400 feet level of the Muldoon shaft. And the first time since the beginning of the fire the non-presence of poisonous gases was noted by exhaustive chemical analysis they said.

Rescue parties working on the 3,600 foot level of the adjoining Kennedy shaft reported they had reached an uncharted bulkhead, presumably erected during a previous fire. It is believed this bulkhead served to check the flood of water used in extinguishing this fire and that better progress will be made beyond the bulkhead toward the 75 foot wall of quartz separating the two mines than has been possible before because of the fallen timbering and muck encountered in reaching the bulkhead.

SEEK 21 MORE INDICTED MEN IN MINE CASE

Score Are Charged With Conspiracy to Murder 19 Victims.

FIFTY EIGHT INDICTED

Grand Jury Adjourns Until September 18 to Sift Evidence.

Marion, Ills., Sept. 9.—Twenty-one more indicted men today were the objects of search by special deputy sheriffs who are scattered through the coal region carrying out the mandates of the special grand jury that is investigating the Herrin massacre of June 22 when nineteen men were shot and beaten to death after a raid on the Lester strip mine.

The 21 were charged yesterday with conspiracy to murder the 19 victims. With them were charged the 37 alleged murderers, eleven of whom were in jail last night, who were named in murder indictments Thursday in three of the deaths. All 58 are joined in a second indictment charging rioting. Twelve other true bills levelled at the twenty-seven alleged killers of J. H. Shoemaker, named in an indictment yesterday contain various groupings of names on the same charge. This method was adopted, according to Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, so that the state could go to trial with one group at a time.

Immediately after the return, the grand jury adjourned until September 18. The primary purpose of the recess was to enable the prosecution to sift the new mass of evidence developed by the grand jury. Another reason was that the Williamson county fair opens here on Tuesday and great crowds of miners are expected to attend.

Those named in the most recent true bills charging conspiracy to murder and the act of rioting are Gerald Bernard, Simon Hiller, Noble Bell, Louis Corlan, Charles Hancock, M. Craig, William Travelstead, V. R. Wilson, Henry Skeltcher, Bill Gulledge, William Sellers, Darbie Babington, One Brookhouse, Sam Catone, Jesse Childers, Orrie Kirby, Earl Baxter, Bill Olander, One Hastings, Fred Cooper and Lee Herron.

Warrants were issued at once on orders of Judge DeWitt T. Hartwell and special deputies started at once to join those who were already searching the coal region for the alleged murderers.

Any doubts that might have existed as to the intentions of the grand jury were removed by a formal statement issued by Foreman John Stewart and William H. Kimmell, a fruit grower, who said that his service on the jury was costing him twenty-five dollars a day loss through his inability to market his peaches.

The statement declared that the grand jury intends to go into the acts of William J. Lester and the Southern Illinois coal company and the deaths of three union men, as well as the massacre.

ST. JOHN TO REMAIN AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Columbus, Sept. 9.—Settlement of a recent controversy at the Ohio State University which threatened for a time to cause an upheaval in the physical education department, was seen in the announcement made yesterday that the board of trustees of the university had decided not to separate the department into two sections this year. L. W. t. John, director of athletics is to remain in charge of the department, the board announced.

The controversy started when the board of trustees announced after an earlier meeting that they had voted for the separation of the physical education into two independent sections this year. L. W. St. John, direceach. Such a move meant divided power, also, according to Mr. St. John, who immediately announced that he would resign if such a move was carried into effect. He later decided that he would stay with the school, no matter what the action the board might take.

ITALY ASKS SUSPENSION OF GREEK-TURK WARFARE

Washington, Sept. 9—The arrival of the American destroyers Litchfield and Simpson at Smyrna and the return of the destroyer Parrott to Constantinople was reported to the navy department today by Rear Admiral Mark Bristol, the American high commissioner at Constantinople

Rome, Sept. 9.—Italy has sent notes to Athens and Angora asking the Greeks and Turks to suspend further hostilities pending the opening of the proposed peace conference at Venice, it was learned today. Indications are that the end of the war is at hand as the Greeks are repored to be in flight from Asia Minor.

INVITE FARMERS OF GREENE COUNTY TO ATTEND MEETING

County Farm Bureau Agent Ford S. Prince, and farmers of the county have been invited to attend a get-together meeting and community gathering at New Germany, Thursday night.

The meeting will be held at the Community Hall, and has been planned by the Farm Bureau members of the vicinity. The program of the evening will include an explanation of the dairy organization by Frank Wardlow of Sugarcreek township, and a discussion of Farm Bureau work by W. B. Bryson, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau.

The program is scheduled for seven thirty o'clock and all farmers of the vicinity of New Germany and Beavercreek with their families and friends are invited.

FARM BUREAU AND MILK ASSOCIATION TO HOLD MEETING

A joint meeting of the Greene County Farm Bureau and the members of the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Producers' Association will be held in Xenia Monday night, for the purpose of hearing the reports of the last month's business at the local cream stations in the county.

Similar meetings are scheduled for Saturday night at Spring Valley, and Tuesday night in Yellow Springs.

The second purpose of the meetings is to discuss the plans of the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Prodicer's Association for the sale of milk to start September 15. The third reason, according to County Agent Ford S. Prince is for the approval of the members of the dairy organization of the platform adopted by the trustees and manager of the Miami Valley Association.

Each different factor will come up for discussion at each of the three meetings to be held in the county.

EXPERIMENT STATION SOYBEAN FIELD DAY

Farmers who have not studied the work of the State Agriculture Experiment Station in the fall of the year will have an exceptionally good opportunity for visiting that institution on Soybean Day, Friday, September 15. Indeed there will be enough in the different departments of interest to any one whether farmer or not to make the trip a profitable one.

SEED POULTRY YARDS TO GRASS THIS FALL

Success with the chicks next spring will depend largely upon the condition of their runs, according to D. C. Kennard, of the Experiment Station. The most effective prevention and control of diseases and parasites transmitted through the soil, he states, is to provide a heavy growth of vegetation which will clean up the soil. This applies particularly to ococcidiosis, intestinal worms, and tuberculosis.

PREDICT SECOND CROP OF CHERRIES THIS YEAR

Farmers residing in the vicinity of the farm of M. A. Bailey, on the Wilmington pike, are predicting a second crop of cherries this year from a tree in the yard of the Bailey home that is blossoming for second time.

The tree is in full bloom, and is considered a freak considering the advanced season, over the country.

YOUNG FARMERS FROM SOUTH OHIO ARE DOING WELL

Southern Ohio farm youngsters came in for more than their usual share of prizes and championships in statewide competative exhibits of the boys' and girls agricultural clubs held at the State Fair, Columbus, last week. Compilation of all awards, just completed by club officials at the Ohio State University show a good many of the champion teams and individuals hail from river counties, or counties a little north of there.

Washington County had the champion demonstration team in home economics; Belmont County's dairy judging team were champions of the show, and so were the general livestock judging team from Greene Co.

In club exhibits, the winning food club was from Hamilton County, and the winning clothing club from Morgan County, Russell Duval of Washington County had the grand champion club Hereford, and Gladys Kordell, Pike County showed the grand champion hog.

In the north of the State, the Lake County canning team won first demonstration honors; Union County's livestock demostration team took the championship cup offered for this competition; and Gordon Riley of Medina County showed the grand champion Hereford of the club classes.

IMPROVES POTATOES BY HILL SELECTION

Potato growers may develop a good seed-stock by hill-selection from any field of potatoes that is reasonably free from tuber diseases. This simple method of improving the variety is suggested by horticulturists of the Ohio Experiment Station.

LAND VALUES IN OHIO NOW ABOUT AT PRE-WAR LEVEL

"Land values in Ohio have gone rapidly downward. They are now about at the level which obtained at the outbreak of the war in 1915."

Rural economists at the Ohio State University make this statement following their monthly study of prices on things which the Ohio farmer buys and sells. The report is made from information supplied the Federal Bureau of crop estimates by correspondents all over the country.

"The break in Ohio land prices represents simply a deflation from extravagant war-time valuations, and is probably an excellent thing for the future of Ohio agriculture. Speculative values in farm property generally mean a shifting rural population and the increase of farm tenancy" the University workers remark.

"By 1920, the average price of farm land in Ohio stood 46 per cent above the price reported in 1913 before the war. The average Ohio acre cost $60 in 1913. and $88 in 1920. In some of the richest western counties, the increase was much greater.

"Reports of federal crop estimators for the months of 1922, to date place the average valule of Ohio farm land at $66 an acre. This is almost exactly the figure reporttd for the year 1915."

SAVE SEED CORN NOW TO PREVENT ANY DISEASE IN NEXT YEAR'S CROP IS ADVICE

Save seed corn now! This is the plea of Farm Bureau officials and agricultural experts ,who say that corn diseases make early selectionc imperative.

"Corn diseases are now so wide spread in every field that the only safe way to select seed corn is from healthy stalks in the field about the time the corn is ready to cut," said County Agent Ford S. Prince, Friday. "At this time corn disease can be most easily seen", said Mr. Prince, "and ears from unhealthy stalks can be avoided for seed.

Corn diseases, or as they are more commonly called, corn root rots, according to Mr. Prince, attack corn plants from the time corn starts to germinate in the spring, and where they are serious enought the grains will fail to grow. If less serious the grains will sprout and get to be a few inches high then the plant will die. Less serious attacks will allow the corn stalks to become nearly mature before they die.

In such cases a reasonably good ear may have been produced and ears from diseased stalks are often chosen for seed when corn is selected from the crib for this purpose.

A diseased stalk of corn may be distinguished by a broken tassel, broken ear shank, and short decayed root system, said Mr. Prince.

The storage of seed selected early is just as important as its selection. Corn selected for seed at this time of year should be stored in such a manner that theair can circulate freely about the ears, should be so placed that they will not touch each other, is the advice county Agent Prince is extending to farmers.

Corn which has been dried down to twelve per cent moisture will stand any amount of zero weather, say farmers. If it contains twenty per cent or more moisture zero weather will kill the vitality of the seed.

"This means" said Mr. Prince "that corn should be thoroughly aired dry by December, and if the corn dried slowly it may be stored in a place where artificial heat may be applied."

The Greene County Farm Bureau is running a campaign urging farmers to select their seed corn early and thus secure a better lot of seed for next seasons planting.

Three such meetings were held during the past week and others are scheduled for next week as follows:

Tuesday, September 12, L. D. Hower, Bath Township, 1:30 p. m.

Wednesday, September 13, William Anderson, New Jersey Township. 9:30 a. m.

Wednesday September 13 T. H. Faulkner, Caesar Creek Township, 1:30 p. m.

Thursday September 14, Henry B. Weller, Sugar Creek Township, 9:30 a. m.

For Following Week

Monday, September 18, C. K. Williamson, Cedarville Township 9:30 a. m.

Monday, September 18, George W. Glass, Ross Township 1:30 p. m.

In addition to these Fred R. Keeler has scheduled four demonstrations for Beaver Creek as Follows:

Monday, September 11, Crawford Smith, 1:00 p. m.

Tuesday, September 12, Rollen Varner 1:00 p. m.

Thursday September 14, William Bentz, 1:00 p. m.

Friday September 15, Earl Koogler, 1:00 p. m.

All farmers are invited to these meetings, for the purpose of learning what corn diseases look like and to avoid them on next years crop.

ASK AID FOR NEEDY CASE.

Social Service League officials are making a plea for a young mother, with three children, under four years of age, who is in need of a baby buggy.

The mother was left a widow recently with the little children, one child born after the father's death, a few weeks ago. She is in great need of the buggy, since the children are so small that she is unable to leave her home on errands. Any one who has a baby buggy is asked to call the Social Service League Headquarters.

UNGOVERNED HATE SPOILS CITIZENSHIP

Columbus, Sept. 9. —Ungoverned hate unfits a man for citizenship, Dr. E. B. Bryan, president of Ohio University at Athens, told an audience of ministers, educators, school children and parents at Memorial Hall late yesterday.

'The man who is a victim of such destructive passions as anger, hate bigotry, prejudice or superstition is uneducated," Dr. Bryan said.

LARGEST FUNERAL IN CHAPEL'S HISTORY ATTENDS LAST RITES

The largest funeral concourse that ever entered Woodland Cemetery participated in the last rites over the body of Volney Nichols, 18-year-old youth, who was killed when a sheriff's posse fired on a crowd of boys Tuesday night.

With the little chapel in Woodland packed to overflowing and more than twice as many people standing outside the edifice, it is estimated that more than 800 people attended the services and saw the boy lowered into his last resting place. The casket containing the body of the unfortunate youth, was taken to the chapel at two o'clock, from the home of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Logan Nichols, on the Wilmington pike.

The casket was covered with floral tributes and sprays and cut flowers were banked around the grave. The whole neighborhood near where the shooting took place, attended the service, and Cemetery officials strained their memory, for a crowd of parallel size. The Rev.E. W. Middleton, pastor of the Reformed Church, had charge of the services.

No mention of the tragic shooting in which the boy met his death, was made by the minister in his funeral discourse. He dwelt upon the frailty of man and how his life is but a span of a few years, emphasizing the theme that death is but a temporary separation, and referring to the reunion to come and the fulfillment of the resurrection and life everlasting.

Mrs. Clara Nichols, mother of the slain youth, bid farewell to a son, whom neighbors say had been most kind to her, in the privacy of her own home Friday. Because of ill health that kept her from attending the services at the chapel, the body was removed by the undertaker from the Whitmer Undertaking estamlishment where it was taken after the shooting to the little home at the corner of the Wilmington pike and the Hook road.

There the mother bid a pitiful fare well to the earthly remains of her oldest son. With tears streaming down her cheeks, she sobbed a prayer for the everlasting peace of her son. The body remained there from 11 o'clock, when it was removed to the home, to two o'clock in the afternoon when the funeral cortege moved toward the Cemetery. Because there were no services at the house, the cortege was not large, most of those attending the rites, going directly to the Cemetery.

Five of the eight boy companions who served as pallbearers were with him playing boyish pranks on Tuesday night, the time of the tragic shootng which resulted in his death. These boys who bore their companion to his last resting place were Donald and Victor Weaver, Clarence Rheubert and Elmer Middleton and Charles Keiter, who were with him at the time of the shooting and Frank Davis, Warren Stephens and Robert Copeland.

Two uncles of the boy just arrived in Xenia in time to attend the funeral services, and are now visitors at the Nichols home. They are Scott and Andrew Nichols, of Bee City, Kentucky, near Winchester the former being a Justice of the Peace there. They both attended the funeral. James Lacey another uncle, brother of Mrs. Nichols, was expected but did not arrive.

AFRICAN PRINCE SCHOLAR AND MISSIONARY VISITS XENIA IN INTERESTS OF HIS PEOPLE

With the arrival here of Prince Bullawa Citawayo, a tribal chieftain of South Africa, Xenia is entertaining royalty probably for the first time.

Prince Citawayo, now a scholar, a divine, a missionary and physician, in addition to being a linguist and orator, is making a tour of America in the interest of his race, and is here as the guest of local colored people.

The Prince will speak at the Third Baptist Church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock on "Paul's Great Fight." and again Tuesday night he will speak at the same church on the subject "Possibilities of Educating and Christianizing Africa." The public is invited to both lectures.

Prince Citawayo is a British subject, son of the late Chief Citawayo of the Zulu Tribe and a resident of Wyneberg, Cape Colony, South Africa. He carries credentials from the British Embassy and American Consulate. He is now 74 years "young" with few wrinkles and slight indications of approaching age. When he was 28 years of age, he was living in the jungles with his father, then the Chief, wearing a britch-cloth and "G" string. The first pair of trousers he ever wore was when he was 28 years of age and then he felt so uncomfortable that he cut them off above the knees. He has never kissed a woman.

At the age of 28 he began his study of civilization and his career of education. He now holds University degrees as a Doctor of Philosophy, Doctor of Medicine and Doctor of Divinity, is a medical missionary in Africa for the Epscopal church, in which he is much interested, and is a consulting physician at Belvedere Hospital, London, largest in the world. He is now supervising the Eduation of his sister, who at the age of 30, is a student at Wilberforce University. Her name is Corilla Citawayo.

Prince Citawayo is an excellent linguist. Although he speaks English with no trace of dialect except that of the Britisher, he is also a speaking master of 14 languages including many of the dialects of his native land, and eight of these languages he writes well.

The Prince's father, the Chief, with Chief Bedawai of the Matabella tribe, led an expedition against the English in Rhodesia in the South African war in 1881. The Prince however served with England in the Boer war and was wounded. His tour in the interests of the colored people, is taking him to many parts of this counry.

East End News

We extend our thanks to our many friends and visitors for their kindness during the illness and our bereavement of our beloved daughter and sister. C. E. Harris, to the Xenia Stemnery friends, of Dayton and Middletown, also to Shartle and Beavers for closing down during the funeral.

Rev. J. E. Harris, and family. 9-9

As the interior of the building is not entirely completed the dedicatory exercises of the beautiful East High School Building will be postponed until sometime in the near future. However we would not tnink of opening the school term without devotional exercises. According to this plan the Junior and Senior High School will assemble in sacred worship Monday morning Sept. 11th at 9:50 o'clock in the study hall. A general invitation is extended to anyone wishinw to attend. Pupils in the Senior and Junior High School pupils are due at 8 o'clock.

Rev. B. L. Marchant will preach Sunday morning and evening at Zion Baptist Church. His subject in the morning will be. "Fit for the Master's Use." In the evening it will be, "Broken Cisterns and Living Waters."

The Peoples First Christian Church. 11 a. m. preaching, subject, "Who Is My Neighbor? At 3 p. m. community meeting, subject, "Am I My Brothers Keeper?" At 8 Christian fellowship. The lesson, Acts, 2nd chapter, 37th verce, and including the remainder of the chapter. We have a book for each person, that you may know the Christian Church. That it stands for law and order. William Williams. Minister.

EAST END TAOIN

St. John's A. M. E. Church. Rev. F. U. Gumbs, Pastor, Sunday services as follows: 10:45 A. M. Worship and sermon Rev. Gladney of Payne Theological Seminary. Sunday School will convene at 12:30 P. M. COURT EFFECTS DELAY IN INJUNCTION AGAINST ENFORCING CHICAGO WRIT

Washington, Sept. 9.—Efforts of striking railway shopmen to nulify the Chicago injunction by getting a restraining order from the federal court of the district of Columbia which would prevent government agents enforcing the Chicago writ failed temporarily today.

Justice Bailey, of the district supreme court, denied the temporary restraining order asked for on Thursday by the international brotherhood of electrical workers, John P. Noonan, president.

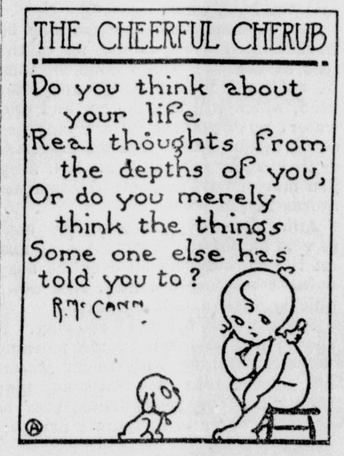

The electrical workers had asked for an order temporarily restraining Peyton Gordon, district attorney, and Edgar Snyder, U. S. Marshall, from carrying out the instructions of the Chicago writ. They asked particularly that the government agents be restrained from interfering with "lawful, peaceful meetings" of the union.

In denying the temporary order asked, Justice Bailey announces that the court's action was "without prejudice" to the permanent injuncion also asked by the striking shopmen.

Argument on the strikers permanent injunction however, will be deferred until next week—or until after the permanency of the governments's injunction is argued before Judge Wilkerson in Chicago on Monday.

At the same time the court ordered District Attorney Peyton Gordon and U. S. Marshall Snyder not to enforce the writ secured at Chicago by Attorney General Daugherty in excess of its provisions as originally promulgated.

Stripped of legal verbiage, the court's decision today was ttamount to delaying the whole matter here in Washington until the government and the union heads have threshed out the rights or wrongs of the Chicago order before Judge Wilkerson in Chicago Monday.

AFRICAN PRINCE SCHOLAR AND MISSIONARY VISITS XENIA IN INTERESTS OF HIS PEOPLE

With the arrival here of Prince Bullawa Citawayo, a tribal chieftain of South Africa, Xenia is entertaining royalty probably for the first time.

Prince Citawayo, now a scholar, a divine, a missionary and physician, in addition to being a lingust and orator, is making a tour of America in the interest of his race, and is here as the guest of local colored people.

The Prince will speak at the Third Baptist Church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock on "Paul's Great Fight," and again Tuesday night he will speak at the same church on the subject "Possibilities of Educating and Christianizing Africa." The public is invited to both lectures.

Prince Citawayo is a British subject, son of the late Chief Citawayo of the Zulu Tribe and a resident of Wyneberg, Cape Colony, South Africa. He carries credentials from the British Embassy and American Consulate. He is now 74 years "young" with few wrinkles and slight indications of approaching age. When he was 28 years of age, he was living in the jungles with his father, then the Chief, wearing a britch-cloth and "G" string. The first pair of trousers he ever wore was when he was 28 years of age and then he felt so uncomfortable that he cut them off above the knees. He has never kissed a woman.

At the age of 28 he began his study of civilization and his career of education. He now holds University degrees as a Doctor of Philosophy, Doctor of Medicine and Doctor of Divinity, is a medical missionary in Africa for the Epscopal church, in which he is much interested, and is a consulting physician at Belvedere Hospital, London, largest in the world. He is now supervising the Eduation of his sister, who at the age of 30, is a student at Wilberforce University. Her name is Corilla Citawayo.

Prince Citawayo is an excellent linguist. Although he speaks English with no trace of dialect except that of the Britisher, he is also a speaking master of 14 languages including many of the dialects of his native land, and eight of these languages he writes well.

The Prince's father, the Chief, with Chief Bedawai of the Matabella tribe, led an expedition against the English in Rhodesia in the South African war in 1881. The Prince however served with England in the Boer war and was wounded. His tour in the interests of the colored people, is taking him to many parts of this counry.

East End News

We extend our thanks to our many friends and visitors for their kindness during the illness and our bereavement of our beloved daughter and sister. C. E. Harris, to the Xenia Stemnery friends, of Dayton and Middletown, also to Shartle and Beavers for closing down during the funeral.

COURT EFFECTS DELAY IN INJUNCTION AGAINST ENFORCING CHICAGO WRIT

Washington, Sept. 9.—Efforts of striking railway shopmen to nulify the Chicago injunction by getting a restraining order from the federal court of the district of Columbia which would prevent government agents enforcing the Chicago writ failed temporarily today.

Justice Bailey, of the district supreme court, denied the temporary restraining order asked for on Thursday by the international brotherhood of electrical workers, John P. Noonan, president.

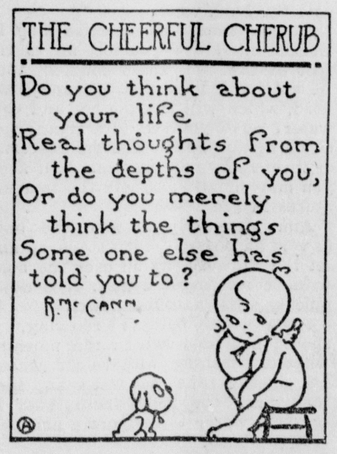

The electrical workers had asked for an order temporarily restraining Peyton Gordon, district attorney, and Edgar Snyder, U. S. Marshall, from carrying out the instructions of the Chicago writ. They asked particularly that the government agents be restrained from interfering with "lawful, peaceful meetings" of the union.

In denying the temporary order asked, Justice Bailey announces that the court's action was "without prejudice" to the permanent injuncion also asked by the striking shopmen.

Argument on the strikers permanent injunction however, will be deferred until next week—or until after the permanency of the governments's injunction is argued before Judge Wilkerson in Chicago on Monday.

At the same time the court ordered District Attorney Peyton Gordon and U. S. Marshall Snyder not to enforce the writ secured at Chicago by Attorney General Daugherty in excess of its provisions as originally promulgated.

Stripped of legal verbiage, the court's decision today was ttamount to delaying the whole matter here in Washington until the government and the union heads have threshed out the rights or wrongs of the Chicago order before Judge Wilkerson in Chicago Monday.

Senator Charles E. Representative Patrick H. Kelley, who considers himself Mr. Townsend's leading opponent, is making his campaign squarely on the Newberry issue. He charges Senator Townsend with active participation in a plot to perpetuate the political system represented by "Newberryism."

Major John G. Emery, of Grand Rapids, formerly national commander of the American Legion, takes credit for having been the first to raise the "big money" issue. He is the nearest approach to a progressive in the fight.

Herbert F. Baker, State Senator, of Cheboygan, is in some respects the most interesting Republican contestant, and the Townsend organization sees in him its most dangerous foe. He is the farm-labor candidate.

Harding Administration issues are beginning to be involved as the primary campaign draws to a close. Senator Townsend, whether he deserves it or not, is labeled the Administration candidate.

Even in the throbbing industrial community of Detroit, always an open-shop citadel, there is no whole-hearted approval of the Harding-Daugherty plan of settling labor conflicts by the Federal injunction process.

Mr. Townsend is not able to dodge the Newberry issue. When he is tackled or heckled about it, he is frank. He declares it was Michigan's legally expressed mandate, recounted and verified, that sent Truman H. Newberry to the Senate, and that he (Townsend) has no cause to apologize for defending his colleague's right to sit alongside him.

PREMIER MAY GET CONTROL OF TIMES.

Lord Northcliffe did not make any definite provision for disposal of the Times in the will he made in 1920, which probably will go to probate, according to a statement by one of his closest business associates.

This eliminates his nephew, Esmond Harmsworth, as future leader of this great property unless his father, Lord Rothermere, emerges successfully from the scramble of stockholders and others for control of that newspaper. As it stands now those who have attempted to deal with the executors cannot be given any definite figures because there is nothing tangible on which to place a real valuation. It is understood the executors intend to carry court procedure regarding the will to a point where they can get some idea of what the Northcliffe property is worth before making any deal for the Times. This is expected to take some time.

Different groups have been formed tentatively in an effort to gain control and the one attracting the most attention is closely identified with Premier Lloyd George. If the Premier could control the policy of this paper his most violent journalist critic would be removed and in conjunction with the Chronicle, which has been under the control of Mr. Lloyd George's friends for some time, would give that political group two powerful organs.

JUSTICE CLARKE'S LETTER.

In selecting ex-Senator George Sutherland, of Utah, for the place made vacant on the Supreme Court bench by the resignation of Justice Clarke, President Harding has enriched that body. Mr. Sutherland's retirement from public life was a serious loss to the people, and his return is a great gain for them; the more so as it cannot be said of him that in any given case the counsel is greater than the court.

For the moment, though, the popular interest lies not so much in the coming as in the parting jurist. Justice Clarke's resignation is couched in remarkable diction, and his reasons are no less remarkable. He will be sixty-five on September and he says:

"For a long time I have promised what I think is my better self that at that age I would free myself as much as possible from imperative duties, to the end that I may have time to read many books which I have not had time to read in a busy life, to travel and to serve my neighbors and some public causes in ways in which I cannot serve them while holding important public office." His resignation is "a beginning of what I hope may at least be a partial realization of this philosophy of my later life."

It is reported that one of the "public causes" in which he may take part is American participation in the rehabilitation of Europe; but it will be noticed that his program includes plenty of leisure, perhaps more play than work. High in the list is the intention of this busy man of sixty-five to catch up on his reading. "Read the best books," said Thoreau; "you may not have time to read them all." It ought to give a start to people who, at forty, are still frantically catching up on the best-selers that are going to be forgotten in five years. Edward Everett Hale was still trying to catch up on his reading along past eighty probably until his death.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

THE HASTY AND EFFECTIVE TOILETTE

A number of letters have come in to me from business girls in which they say they are anxious to follow the advice given in the Chats, as to bathing and other details comprising the dainty toilette but cannot spare the time such grooming necessititates One girl writes: "I have only 20 minutes in which to dress so how can I take a full bath, much less all the other things I should love to do, in order to be fresh for the work of the day?"

And so, for other girls just so situated, I have arranged a combination of essentials that it took me exactly ten minutes to perform. I fancy any other person could do them in much the same time. Turn on the hot water and during the time that it takes for two or three inches of it to run into the tub, clean the teeth, snuff a little water up the nose and drink, at least one glass of clear cold water. Turn to the bath tub and scour the finger nails well with soap and a nail brush, then clean the nails and push the cuticle back with an orange stick, which should be kept with brush and soap.

Now the water is ready and should be as hot as comfortable—unless you take the tonic cold bath which is not, however, cleansing. If the water is hard, add a few drops of ammonia or a few drops of benzoin. Wash the face, arms and neck, and so on, sopping as much hot water over all as is possible. Now turn to the cold water and rinse off the face and throat, sopping plenty of it over the skin. Turn the cold water on full force and let it cool the bath water

At this time some exercise may be worked in. Draw yourself up to the foot of the tub, knees doubled, then lie back and push yourself up to the head, which will mix the hot and cold water; push yourself to a sitting position again; and repeat the exercises or invent any new ones that will keep you moving and also mix the temperatures in the water.

Aim ultimately to take the bath as cold as possible, even stand up and let the shower play all over the body without wetting the hair. Rub down quickly with a course towel.

As a warm bath is relaxing, it should not be taken in the morning without finishing with colder water; but since it takes hot water and soap to cleanse the body, there must be the cold water to invigorate and perfect the bath.

ROAD WORK DELAYED BY MATERIAL LACK

Columbus, Sept. 9.—Insufficient supplies of necessary material will make it impossible to complete work on 1,000 miles of pavement provided for in 350 contracts covering road improvements in all sections of the state according to an announcement made today by State Highway Lirector Herrick.

Lack of transportation, owing to the fact that the necessary road materials are not on the preferred priority lists, as scheduled by the federal fuel commission, is to be the cause of the general curtailment of the state's highway building program, Director Herrick declared.

"Since we cannot have a large amount of pavement material we are going to concentrate our efforts on finishing base course the remainder of the year in order to avoid as many detours thi winter as is possible," he declared.

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

GEMS OF SONG.

To James the blacksmith I repair, to have him shoe my old blind mare, since she is going lame; and when his useful toil is done, and I am handing out the mon, he says, "I'm glad you came; I have an ode I wrote lastyear; I wish you'd read it while you're here, and tell me what you think; is it a grand and soaring song? Is it too short? Is it too long? Or is it on the blink?" The tinsmith, ere he mends my boat, pulls out a bundle from his coat, a bale of manuscript; "Sit down," he says, "and read this lay, while I repair your ancient dray, that is so badly hipped." The tailor, as he plies his tape, remarks, "I wish I could escape from this depressing trade; the odes and madrigals I write would be acknowledged out of sight, if by good critics weighed." The barber, as he dyes my beard, quotes passages from poems weird, that he composed yest'reen; "with all my being I aspire," he sadly says, "to punch a lyre, but ah, the fates are mean!" The waiter brings me ham and eggs, and, as I eat, he mildly begs five minutes of my time; he'd have me read a little book he wrote conjointly with the cook, and which he thinks sublime. Oh, poets sell me oil and gas, and poets mow my stretch of grass, and poets shine my shoes; and each one thinks his noble dope would rank with that of Burns or Pope, if he but had his dues.

Today's Talk by George Matthew Adams

ARE YOU A "PHILOSOPHIC?"

I read a very inspiring article the other day by John Brophy, a labor leader who is at the head of nearly 50,000 Union coal miners in Pennsylvania.

This man came to America when but a small boy. He began to work in the mines when he was only twelve years old. He was born of a family of miners which had come to America from England. His early history was one of pitiable poverty and discouragement.

But somehow or other, he aspired to be something more than an ordinary toiler. So he began to read books. He ead the ones he could find. There were only two of these—one about "Buffalo Bill's" Wild West and one about the American Civil War. One told him about the West, the other about the South. Then he had something to dream about. His imagination was stirred. He sought more books, and then what papers and magazines he could get.

Soon, he joined the union and his force of character impressed itself and he was made an officer in his local organization. Today he is a leader worthy and fit. I wish to quote two things which are a product of his thinking. Here they are:

"A man's philosophy is his suffering."

"Loneliness, illness, and poverty keep an immigrant an alien. Good luck and good times make him an American."

John Brophy early became a "philosophich.' He used his eyes and his head. Now, as a leader of the toilers, he is opening the eyes of the "other side" to the fact that cooperation and justice offer the only road to happy welfare in industrial life.

I have gotten great inspiration from the story of this man Brophy's life. I would like to have him for a friend. He is a labor leader worthy to be trusted and followed.

High in the list is the intention of this busy man of sixty-five to catch up on his reading. "Read the best books," said Thoreau; "you may not have time to read them all." It ought to give a start to people who, at forty, are still frantically catching up on the best-selers that are going to be forgotten in five years. Edward Everett Hale was still trying to catch up on his reading along past eighty probably until his death.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

THE HASTY AND EFFECTIVE TOILETTE

A number of letters have come in to me from business girls in which they say they are anxious to follow the advice given in the Chats, as to bathing and other details comprising the dainty toilette but cannot spare the time such grooming necessititates One girl writes: "I have only 20 minutes in which to dress so how can I take a full bath, much less all the other things I should love to do, in order to be fresh for the work of the day?"

And so, for other girls just so situated, I have arranged a combination of essentials that it took me exactly ten minutes to perform. I fancy any other person could do them in much the same time. Turn on the hot water and during the time that it takes for two or three inches of it to run into the tub, clean the teeth, snuff a little water up the nose and drink, at least one glass of clear cold water. Turn to the bath tub and scour the finger nails well with soap and a nail brush, then clean the nails and push the cuticle back with an orange stick, which should be kept with brush and soap.

Now the water is ready and should be as hot as comfortable—unless you take the tonic cold bath which is not, however, cleansing. If the water is hard, add a few drops of ammonia or a few drops of benzoin. Wash the face, arms and neck, and so on, sopping as much hot water over all as is possible. Now turn to the cold water and rinse off the face and throat, sopping plenty of it over the skin. Turn the cold water on full force and let it cool the bath water

At this time some exercise may be worked in. Draw yourself up to the foot of the tub, knees doubled, then lie back and push yourself up to the head, which will mix the hot and cold water; push yourself to a sitting position again; and repeat the exercises or invent any new ones that will keep you moving and also mix the temperatures in the water.

Aim ultimately to take the bath as cold as possible, even stand up and let the shower play all over the body without wetting the hair. Rub down quickly with a course towel.

As a warm bath is relaxing, it should not be taken in the morning without finishing with colder water; but since it takes hot water and soap to cleanse the body, there must be the cold water to invigorate and perfect the bath.

ROAD WORK DELAYED BY MATERIAL LACK

Columbus, Sept. 9.—Insufficient supplies of necessary material will make it impossible to complete work on 1,000 miles of pavement provided for in 350 contracts covering road improvements in all sections of the state according to an announcement made today by State Highway Lirector Herrick.

Lack of transportation, owing to the fact that the necessary road materials are not on the preferred priority lists, as scheduled by the federal fuel commission, is to be the cause of the general curtailment of the state's highway building program, Director Herrick declared.

"Since we cannot have a large amount of pavement material we are going to concentrate our efforts on finishing base course the remainder of the year in order to avoid as many detours thi winter as is possible," he declared.

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

GEMS OF SONG.

To James the blacksmith I repair, to have him shoe my old blind mare, since she is going lame; and when his useful toil is done, and I am handing out the mon, he says, "I'm glad you came; I have an ode I wrote lastyear; I wish you'd read it while you're here, and tell me what you think; is it a grand and soaring song? Is it too short? Is it too long? Or is it on the blink?" The tinsmith, ere he mends my boat, pulls out a bundle from his coat, a bale of manuscript; "Sit down," he says, "and read this lay, while I repair your ancient dray, that is so badly hipped." The tailor, as he plies his tape, remarks, "I wish I could escape from this depressing trade; the odes and madrigals I write would be acknowledged out of sight, if by good critics weighed." The barber, as he dyes my beard, quotes passages from poems weird, that he composed yest'reen; "with all my being I aspire," he sadly says, "to punch a lyre, but ah, the fates are mean!" The waiter brings me ham and eggs, and, as I eat, he mildly begs five minutes of my time; he'd have me read a little book he wrote conjointly with the cook, and which he thinks sublime. Oh, poets sell me oil and gas, and poets mow my stretch of grass, and poets shine my shoes; and each one thinks his noble dope would rank with that of Burns or Pope, if he but had his dues.

Today's Talk by George Matthew Adams

ARE YOU A "PHILOSOPHIC?"

I read a very inspiring article the other day by John Brophy, a labor leader who is at the head of nearly 50,000 Union coal miners in Pennsylvania.

This man came to America when but a small boy. He began to work in the mines when he was only twelve years old. He was born of a family of miners which had come to America from England. His early history was one of pitiable poverty and discouragement.

But somehow or other, he aspired to be something more than an ordinary toiler. So he began to read books. He ead the ones he could find. There were only two of these—one about "Buffalo Bill's" Wild West and one about the American Civil War. One told him about the West, the other about the South. Then he had something to dream about. His imagination was stirred. He sought more books, and then what papers and magazines he could get.

Soon, he joined the union and his force of character impressed itself and he was made an officer in his local organization. Today he is a leader worthy and fit. I wish to quote two things which are a product of his thinking. Here they are:

"A man's philosophy is his suffering."

"Loneliness, illness, and poverty keep an immigrant an alien. Good luck and good times make him an American."

John Brophy early became a "philosophich.' He used his eyes and his head. Now, as a leader of the toilers, he is opening the eyes of the "other side" to the fact that cooperation and justice offer the only road to happy welfare in industrial life.

I have gotten great inspiration from the story of this man Brophy's life. I would like to have him for a friend. He is a labor leader worthy to be trusted and followed.

Four years ago this week Americans at Chateau Thierry were winning the most important battle of history's greatest war. The world rang with their praises when at the little city of Chateau Thierry they held the German armies when a further advance might have meant a final allied disaster. From this moment the allied forces held the Germans throughout, and rapidly passed to a victorious offensive. How the War Department is teaching 10,000 men through correspondence school courses the lessons of the war is told in this article.

America's after-war attitude not only toward conflict, but toward the lessons learned from conflict, has always been that of the negro trooper sailing by the Statue of Liberty on his way home from France.

"Take a good look at me, Leddy," he was heard to murmur as the transport passed the colossal figure, " 'Kase you ain't never gonna see me no mo'."

Such has been the sentiment of rank and file after all the country's wars. Eagerly the soldier has gone home to forget. He has not forgotten, for his war-time experience has always remained to him one of his finest memories. But it has remained only as a memory and has not been passed on to his sons. When the old soldier died, with him has died practically all he learned to win a victory. It happened after the Revolution, after 1815, after the Civil War.

There is something fine in the attitude of putting behind oneself past achievements and resolutely facing the future in place of living in the past, but in 1917, when the nation in a great crisis found that it took more than a year to put effectives in the field, it was realized that this sentiment was alloyed with something foolhardy, something almost selfish.

So the anniversary of Chateau Thierry finds the American army preparing to bequeath the lessons of costly sacrifice to those who will comprise the nation. And although the correspondence school courses in military training instituted by the War Department to teach these lessons were announced only a few months ago, there are now about 10,000 men enrolled.

Neglected Lessons of Civil War

As the plans for training a civilian reserve against future emergencies take form, students of military affairs lament the fact that little if anything was done to conserve the knowledge gained in our Civil War. They point out that had the lessons of Petersburg and Vicksburg and Gettysburg been preserved in the minds of the nation's young men, instead of relegated to the study of War College and regular Army, Chateau Thierry might have been fought in June, 1917, instead of in June, 1918. The armistice might have been signed at Christmas, 1917, instead of the following November. And for every day of conflict avoided there might have been saved $30,000,000 and many lives.

In fact it is acknowledged had Germany known that America knew how to fight, there might have been no Chateau Thierry. Shortly after the Civil War, France, then a great militarized nation of Europe, hastily withdrew from Mexico at the mere suggestion from the United States that such a course would be advisable. France knew that America had trained men, northern and southern, in numbers that could sweep her out of the Western Hemisphere.

But this generation of trained men passed on, was mustered out, heard the call of taps, without telling its sons what it knew. Because the veterans hated the thought of their sons going to war they would not acknowledge it possible.

All of the military forces of the United States have been drawn upon for personnel to contribute to the construction and direction of the correspondence courses. The War Department, the corps areas, the various service schools, and specially qualified officers from the National Guard and Organized Reserves have all collaborated in this work.

In planning the instruction, Army officers studied the methods of correspondence school and university extension courses throughout the country.

Based on Practical Methods

The initial study was made at the International Correspondence Schools at Scranton. When they had finished their study they went back to Washington to build the Army's knowledge of trench warfare and supply movement into lessons that can be taught by mail. Teaching military subjects alone, the Army courses conflict in no way with the country's schools and colleges.

As a result of their work, there are now 10,000 students enrolled from among the 67,000 Reserve officers, from the enlisted reserves and National Guardsmen. When Congress appropriates money to complete the plan, the students will be given an opportunity to supplement their correspondence schooling with "laboratory" experience in summer training camps.

The correspondence method of instruction was chosen because of its efficiency, its cheapness, its flexibility, and its merit of placing at the disposal of the most isolated individual the finest teaching brains available. The farmer at Walla Walla, Wash., or the office manager in Atlanta, Ga., can have as his instructors in gas attack or range finding the men who know these subjects thoroughly, whether these experts are stationed at the War College, at the Presidio, San Francisco, or at Cavite. All this can be done without pulling the students away from their jobs, and imposing the burden of a huge non-producing class on the rest of the country, as has been done under the European system of training.

Guards Against Militarism

In addition, it is pointed out that the training of the student in his own home town with his mind largely occupied by his daily work, will prevent the possible production of a "militarized" class. As a matter of fact, among the Organized Reserves, for whom these courses were primarily designed, there is no possibility of a militaristic tendency. For by law they cannot be called out to do strike or police duty. They are available only when Congress declares a "war emergency" to exist.

These courses will be strengthened and expanded and made available to more men as the tacticians and technicians in the army centers develop their craft. New, younger men—who did not fight at Chateau Thierry—will be recruited into the Reserves and Guards from the college training units—but the lessons of Chateau Thierry, amended and revised, will go on and on, a sort of folk lore of bravery and achievement handed constantly from older men to younger.

Col. John McA. Palmer, Aid to General Pershing, has outlined the military policy of the country as it affects the Army correspondence schools in these words: "At certain crises in our history, with a vast expenditure of treasure and human energy, we have erected a great war machine and then have demolished that organization after the emergency without any provision for making that expenditure a permanent national investment. After being forced to militarize a whole generation we have taken no precaution to make the sacrifices of that generation a heritage of experience for the next generation that may be called upon to bear the stress of war. It is primarily the object of our new law to perpetuate the framework of the organization developed in the World War, so that its tremendous cost can be funded as a permanent investment for all time."

How to Enroll

So, if you are a member of the Officers' or Enlisted Reserve Corps, or of the National Guard, and want to know more about your avocation, write your corps area commander, and tell him that you'd like to go to school. He'll send you neatly mimeographed sheets with full information.

After you have been duly enrolled for the elementary tactics and technique of your branch of the service—or, if you are above the grade of major, in advanced tactics and technique—you will receive your first lesson assignment sheet. After your study of the text, collateral reading, and completion of written exercises, you will send back to your corps area headquarters your written work. This will be corrected and returned to you, with your grade for the lesson, together with another assignment sheet. And you will follow through, reviving to memory the lessons of the battle-field, if you were on the battle-field, or learning these lessons for the first time, if you were not. Enough instructors have been assigned so that each can do real personal work with his student.

International Burglary Insurance

When you complete the course you receive a certificate—a certificate that indicates another potential soldier of the United States has cashed in his potentiality. Or, putting it figuratively, it will constitute another bloc of international burglary insurance taken out by the country.

WOMAN'S DRIVE INTO POLITICS THIS YEAR RAISES CONSIDERA BLE SPLASH IN U. S.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Woman's dive into politics this year has raised a considerable splash.

Such marked success has attended the primary races made by women, that "Aunt Alice" Robertson is likely to have sufficient reinforcement to organize a "female bloc" in congress this winter. Miss Alice Paul, vice president of the National Woman's Party, said today.

Of 24 women who have "gone to bat" in the primaries to date, 12 have "gotten to first" so to speak. In plainer language, fifty per cent have been nominated, including one candidate for governor, three candidates for United States senator and eight for the house of representatives.

And of the successful 12, three stand an excellent chance of election—Miss Robertson, Mrs. Winifred Buck, in Illinois and Mrs. Lucile St. Clair Moss in Missouri. All three are running for congress, the first two on the Republican ticket; Mrs. St. Clair on the Democratic.

The chances of the other candidates including Mrs. Peter Olsen, running for senator on the Democratic ticket in Minnesota and Mrs. Ben Hooper, running against Lafollette in Wisconsin, also on the Democratic ticket, are considered slim.

"I think its an admirable showing, particularly in view of the face that women are still new at politics," said Miss Paul. "This s the first congressional campaign in which women have had a chance to show what they could do. Women suffrage was not a fact until the middle of the 1920 campaign.

Inquiry at Republican national headquarters confirmed Miss Paul's opinion that women are doing well in politics this fall. Although exact figures were not available, officials in close touch with local situations throughout the country declared that women with enough courage to make a fight would be largely scessful.

But Miss Paul was not glad to be interviewed on the question of women politics, even through women are doing well.

"It extremely discouraging that the idea of women in politics is so novel that newspaper stories are written about it," she said. "It's a very clear indication of the inferior status of women, that we are still in bondage.

If women were not a subject sex there would be just as many women running for office as men," she continued. "But she's man's inferior and will continue so until she asserts herself and gains economic equality. Equal political and legal rights will follow automatically.

But this generation of trained men passed on, was mustered out, heard the call of taps, without telling its sons what it knew. Because the veterans hated the thought of their sons going to war they would not acknowledge it possible.

All of the military forces of the United States have been drawn upon for personnel to contribute to the construction and direction of the correspondence courses. The War Department, the corps areas, the various service schools, and specially qualified officers from the National Guard and Organized Reserves have all collaborated in this work.

In planning the instruction, Army officers studied the methods of correspondence school and university extension courses throughout the country.

Based on Practical Methods

The initial study was made at the International Correspondence Schools at Scranton. When they had finished their study they went back to Washington to build the Army's knowledge of trench warfare and supply movement into lessons that can be taught by mail. Teaching military subjects alone, the Army courses conflict in no way with the country's schools and colleges.

As a result of their work, there are now 10,000 students enrolled from among the 67,000 Reserve officers, from the enlisted reserves and National Guardsmen. When Congress appropriates money to complete the plan, the students will be given an opportunity to supplement their correspondence schooling with "laboratory" experience in summer training camps.

The correspondence method of instruction was chosen because of its efficiency, its cheapness, its flexibility, and its merit of placing at the disposal of the most isolated individual the finest teaching brains available. The farmer at Walla Walla, Wash., or the office manager in Atlanta, Ga., can have as his instructors in gas attack or range finding the men who know these subjects thoroughly, whether these experts are stationed at the War College, at the Presidio, San Francisco, or at Cavite. All this can be done without pulling the students away from their jobs, and imposing the burden of a huge non-producing class on the rest of the country, as has been done under the European system of training.

Guards Against Militarism

In addition, it is pointed out that the training of the student in his own home town with his mind largely occupied by his daily work, will prevent the possible production of a "militarized" class. As a matter of fact, among the Organized Reserves, for whom these courses were primarily designed, there is no possibility of a militaristic tendency. For by law they cannot be called out to do strike or police duty. They are available only when Congress declares a "war emergency" to exist.

These courses will be strengthened and expanded and made available to more men as the tacticians and technicians in the army centers develop their craft. New, younger men—who did not fight at Chateau Thierry—will be recruited into the Reserves and Guards from the college training units—but the lessons of Chateau Thierry, amended and revised, will go on and on, a sort of folk lore of bravery and achievement handed constantly from older men to younger.

Col. John McA. Palmer, Aid to General Pershing, has outlined the military policy of the country as it affects the Army correspondence schools in these words: "At certain crises in our history, with a vast expenditure of treasure and human energy, we have erected a great war machine and then have demolished that organization after the emergency without any provision for making that expenditure a permanent national investment. After being forced to militarize a whole generation we have taken no precaution to make the sacrifices of that generation a heritage of experience for the next generation that may be called upon to bear the stress of war. It is primarily the object of our new law to perpetuate the framework of the organization developed in the World War, so that its tremendous cost can be funded as a permanent investment for all time."

How to Enroll

So, if you are a member of the Officers' or Enlisted Reserve Corps, or of the National Guard, and want to know more about your avocation, write your corps area commander, and tell him that you'd like to go to school. He'll send you neatly mimeographed sheets with full information.

After you have been duly enrolled for the elementary tactics and technique of your branch of the service—or, if you are above the grade of major, in advanced tactics and technique—you will receive your first lesson assignment sheet. After your study of the text, collateral reading, and completion of written exercises, you will send back to your corps area headquarters your written work. This will be corrected and returned to you, with your grade for the lesson, together with another assignment sheet. And you will follow through, reviving to memory the lessons of the battle-field, if you were on the battle-field, or learning these lessons for the first time, if you were not. Enough instructors have been assigned so that each can do real personal work with his student.

International Burglary Insurance

When you complete the course you receive a certificate—a certificate that indicates another potential soldier of the United States has cashed in his potentiality. Or, putting it figuratively, it will constitute another bloc of international burglary insurance taken out by the country.

Francis King, youngest son of Geo. W. King of Maple Corner, was operated on for the removal of his tonsils and adenoids Thursday morning at the office of Dr. J. H. French, at Jamestown. Dr. R. L. Haines and Dr. French performed the operation.

Marcus McCallister, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McCallister is leaving Monday for Miami University at Oxford where he will take up his studies for the fall term.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Early and son Ayler returned Friday night from Indianapolis, Ind., where they spent the past week.

Miss Margaret Crome, of Washington C. H., returned home Thursday after having spent two days in this city as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Blackburn of West Street.

Martin Berry left Friday night for Atlantic City and New York where he will spend ten days, attending the Painter's Convention.

Paul Satterfield motored to Delaware Friday where he will spend the week end visiting with fraternity friends. He was accompanied by William LeSourd and Kenneth Hudson who will enter Ohio Wesleyan University.

Kenneth Hudson and William LeSourd went to Delaware Friday, where they are students in Ohio Wesleyan University which will oper Wednesday.

Mrs. Lucy Keiter, of Home avenue, who is ill at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Pramer, on the Fairfield pike, suffering from typhoid fever, is thought to be doing as well as could be expected. Mrs. Keiter is attended by Dr. L. L. Taylor, of Yellow Springs, during her illness, which has been of a week's duration

Word has been received in this city from Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Steele and two daughters, who have been touring Europe, that the party intends to sail September 16 for America.

Miss Marguerite Ralls, who took up her work the first of the week as a teacher in the Cedarville grade schools, will spend the week end at her home in this city.

Judge Marcus Shoup is confined to his home on East Main street, suffering from a bad infection in his right hand. The infection is quite painful, and is thought that blood poisoning will result. Dr. George Davis is attending Judge Shoup.

Mrs. Walter E. Hopton, of Syracuse N. Y., arrived in this city Thursday night and will be a guest at the wedding of her niece, Miss Julia McCormick and Mr. Fred Zartman which will take place September 12.

FORMER RESIDENT OF COUNTY IS DEAD

Judith Emma Sayrs, 60, wife of Dr. John H. Sayrs, of Zion City, Illinois, and formerly resident of Bowersville, died Sept. 3, at their home 2502 Elisha Avenue, in Zion City.

Her death came after an extended illness. Funeral services were held at the Christian Assembly in Zion City, Tuesday afternoon with interment at Lake Mound Cemetery.

Mrs. Sayrs resided with her family in Zion City, from its foundation as a city. She was the daughter of Dr. John M. and Mary Jane Hussey of Bowersville, Ohio, and was born January 1, 1862.

She was united in marriage to John H. Sayrs, March 3, 1880. To this union were born five children, three of whom, Elva, Blanche, Cora Ethel and Joseph preceded her in death, and two, Eleanor Miriam and Henry John Francis, with their father survive.

WOMAN'S DRIVE INTO POLITICS THIS YEAR RAISES CONSIDERA BLE SPLASH IN U. S.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Woman's dive into politics this year has raised a considerable splash.

Such marked success has attended the primary races made by women, that "Aunt Alice" Robertson is likely to have sufficient reinforcement to organize a "female bloc" in congress this winter. Miss Alice Paul, vice president of the National Woman's Party, said today.

Of 24 women who have "gone to bat" in the primaries to date, 12 have "gotten to first" so to speak. In plainer language, fifty per cent have been nominated, including one candidate for governor, three candidates for United States senator and eight for the house of representatives.

And of the successful 12, three stand an excellent chance of election —Miss Robertson, Mrs. Winifred Buck, in Illinois and Mrs. Lucile St. Clair Moss in Missouri. All three are running for congress, the first two on the Republican ticket; Mrs. St. Clair on the Democratic.

The chances of the other candidates including Mrs. Peter Olsen, running for senator on the Democratic ticket in Minnesota and Mrs. Ben Hooper, running against Lafollette in Wisconsin, also on the Democratic ticket, are considered slim.

"I think its an admirable showing, particularly in view of the face that women are still new at politics," said Miss Paul. "This s the first congressional campaign in which women have had a chance to show what they could do. Women suffrage was not a fact until the middle of the 1920 campaign.

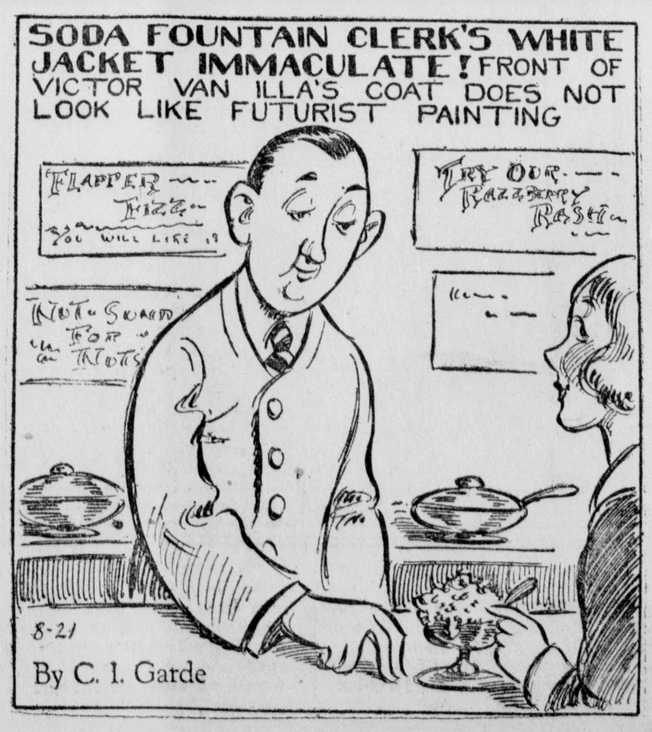

Inquiry at Republican national headquarters confirmed Miss Paul's opinion that women are doing well in politics this fall. Although exact figures were not available, officials in close touch with local situations throughout the country declared that women with enough courage to make a fight would be largely successful.

But Miss Paul was not glad to be interviewed on the question of women politics, even through women are doing well.

"It extremely discouraging that the idea of women in politics is so novel that newspaper stories are written about it," she said. "It's a very clear indication of the inferior status of women, that we are still in bondage.

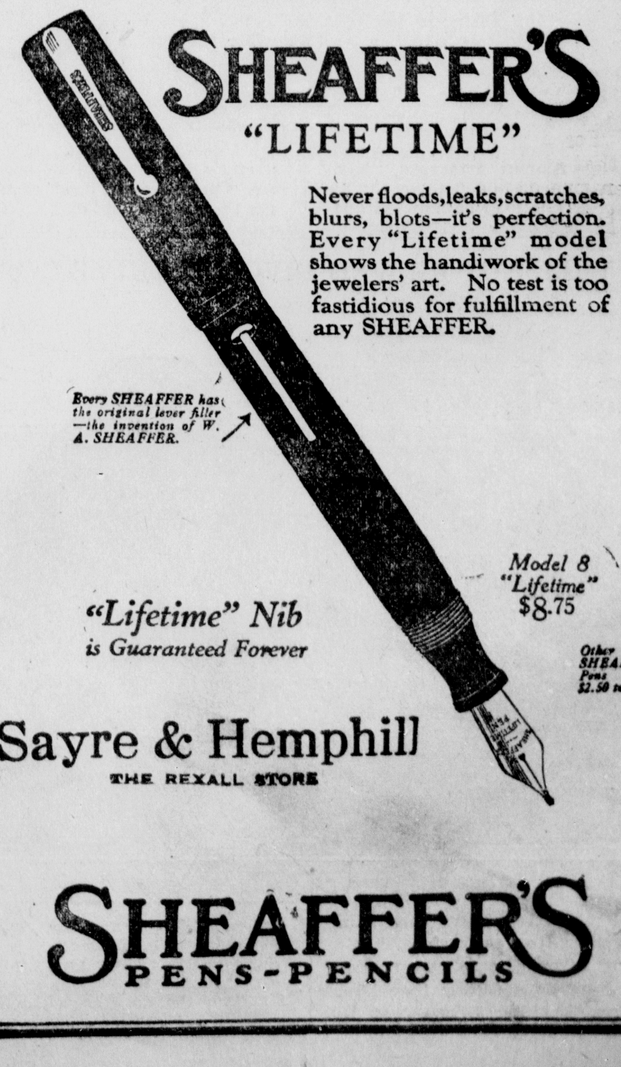

If women were not a subject sex there would be just as many women running for office as men," she continued. "But she's man's inferior and will continue so until she asserts herself and gains economic equality. Equal political and legal rights will follow automatically.

SCENE OF DISASTROUS MINE FIRE

Rescue parties, with smoke helmets, fighting their way into the entrance to the famous Argonaut Gold Mine at Jackson, Cal., where forty-five miners were entombed a mile underground by fire.

CHILD OF CHAUFFEUR-HEIRESS CENTER OF FIGHT.

Edward J. Groome, formerly chauffeur for the family of a millionaire steele magnate, married Julia Towle, his employer's daughter in New York. He declares he did so only when she had three times proposed to him.

Later, she visited her parents to affect a reconciliation—and then refused to return to him. Now he is suing his father-in-law for $100,000 for alienation of affections and asks the Court to award him custody of their baby daughter.

CHICAGO COMBATS SMOKE EVIL

Chicago's Health Department is taking strenuous steps to end the chimney-smoke evil, to which has been traced prevailing illnesses in the Windy City. Dr. John D. Robertson, Health Commissioner, is shown (to right of the man wearing a cap), with his assistants, on the roof of a skyscrapter, scanning the city for signs of unnecessary smoke.

"HOBO KING" IS CANADIAN WAR HERO

Some weeks ago a shabby, mysterious, but perfectly mannered man registered at a Seattle, (Wash.) hotel as "Hobo King." His real identity was concealed until it became known that he was Captain John J. Roche, Canadian war hero, author and world traveler, and that he had been married to Mrs. Alice Marie Jordan, widow of the commander of the U. S. S. Dauntless, killed in action off the coast of Mexico in 1918 by a German raider. Captain Roche, it developed, made a wager of $38,000 that he could travel around the American continent without revealing his identity. Roche would not have completed his task until January, 1923, so loses his bet by a few months.

BEAUTY AND POWER: ATTRIBUTES OF CANADA'S WATERFALLS

Those who follow the progress of development in Canada are aware that she has vast potential water-power resources. A governmental report issued late in 1920 gave an estimate of the total available water power at from 18 to 20 millions of horse power. At that date turbine water wheel and turbine horse power had been installed to the amount of 2,417,896 h. p., capable of being expanded to 3,384,808 h. p. This power is cheap and is attracting American industries to locate branches in Canada.

In order to generate this vast amount of power there must be waterfalls and Canada is rich in them. A study of the Dominion map will reveal a maze of rivers and creeks flowing toward the Atlantic, St. Lawrence, Great Lakes, Pacific and Arctic Oceans and Hudson's Bay. In their rapid descent these rivers take many spectacular leaps and form tremendous waterfalls. Up till now these falls have been viewed from the utilitarian rather than the scenic viewpoint, but now they are beginning to attract visitors in greater numbers as their majesty and beauty become known.

Canada possesses an unique attraction in the Reversible Falls at St. John, New Brunswick, on the St. John River. This river empties into the Bay of Fundy, noted for its 40 ft. tides, and when it is high tide the water from the bay rushes upstream reversing the falls which at low tide flow seaward.

Montmorency Falls, seven miles from Quebec City, while not nearly so great in volume as Niagara are almost twice as high. The water falls almost perpendicularly in a 274 foot leap.

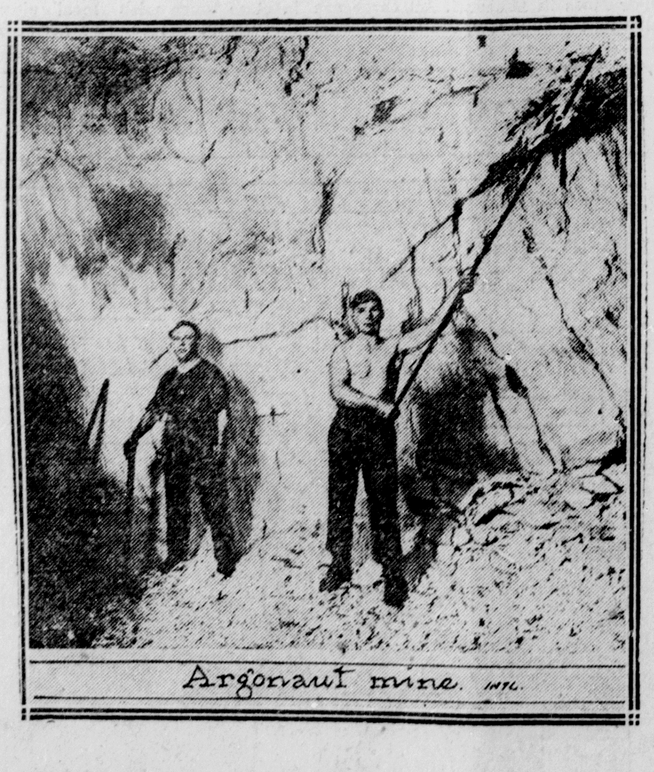

Kakabeka Falls, 20 miles west of Ft. William in Ontario, on the Kaministiquia River are ten feet higher than Niagara and of great volume. A good motor road stretches between Ft. William and these falls. Innumerable falls are scattered through the Canadian Pacific Rockies, some of the best known are those in Johnson Creek near Banff, the Giant's Steps at Lake Louise and Twin Falls and Takakkaw Falls in Yoho Valley. Bonnington Falls on the Kootenay River are very beautiful seen by moonlight and supply the whole Kootenay Valley with power.

WILL DEFEND HERRIN (ILL.) MINERS

FOUGHT DESPERATELY TO SAVE MINERS

This flashlight was taken in the 4,500-foot level of the Argonaut Mine, at Jackson, Cal., where rescuers fought for so many hours to save forty-six men imprisoned by a mine fire. The Argonaut Mine is one of the deepest in the world and yields more than $1,000,000 worth of gold every year.

WILL NOT RE-WED DIVORCED HUSBAND

Because they have been seen together frequently since their Paris divorce, there were rumors in New York society that Mrs. Lorraine Miller Graves was to re-wed Robert Grave. Both deny this, admitting, however, that they are of a new type that, having agreed to disagree and be divorced, see no reason for not remaining friendly.

HEAT RESPONSIBLE FOR THIRD DEATH

Cleveland, Sept. 9—Believed to have lost her reason through the excessive heat, Irene Sturgess, 16, is missing today after having left at her home a note reading: "Goodbye; I am going to drown myself."

If her threat is carried out, it will make the total number of heat victims three here. When the thermometer reached 92 yesterday the highest September record since 1897 two men succumbed. They were Robt R. Johnson 30, and Edward Bruce, 62

At noon today the thermometer stood 89 degrees, slightly cooler than yesterday. The humidity was less and there was a slight breeze.

ZIMMERMAN

Mrs. Scott Lamb (Lottie Brown) spent two days recently at the home of her half-brother, Mr. Scott Sellars and wife.

Ed Bailey has purchased a new Overland touring car.

Mr. Gibbons, who recently purchased the William Coy farm on the Shakertown pike, was the victim of chicken thieves who broke into his poultry house and took 13 Rhode Island Red chickens.

Bob Lafong and wife, and Sarah Smart have moved into part of the Helmer residence.

Frank Wagner, Sr., is having a new bungalow built on his farm north of Zimmerman, which he will occupy when completed. Dan Dice of Alpha is the contractor.

Misses Dottie and May Koogler, spent from Saturday until Monday with their aunt, Mrs. Thomas Moore. at Newport, Ky.

Miss Lida Ferguson delightfully entertained the Sunshine Class of Beaver Sunday School at her beautiful country home near Zimmerman, Wednesday afternoon. There were about twenty-five members of the class and friends present. Miss Cannan, of Dayton, gave an interesting talk. Misses Josephine Ankeney and Mrs. Lewis (Esta Benner) tied for first prize in the Travel Contest. Canteloupes garnished with nuts were served as refreshments.

Howard Owens was honor guest at a picnic at Overlook Park near West Milton given in honor of his birthday anniversary. The following were present, his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Helmer, sisters, Miss Pearl Owens, and Mrs. Harvey Holverstott and family of Xenia; and Mrs. Carl Hecklar and family of Dayton; brother—Carl and Willard Helmer, also Miss Nellie Wilson.

Rev. Leatherman. of Cincinnati, preached an excelent sermon at the Church of the Brethren here recently, to a large appreciative audience. Among those present were, Martin Zimmerman, wife and baby, of Dayton; Mr. Zimmerman was a former resident of Zimmerman.

The Young Peoples' Society held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Chester and Ralph Johnson Thursday evening. The following officers were elected: Homer Koogler, president; Howard Bailey, secretary; Dot Koogler, treasurer; Ralph Johnson, choirister. After the business meeting a very pleasant evening was spent in various games and contests, the winners in the latter being Miss May Koogler, Norman Huston and Homer Koogler.

The Zimmerman Sunday School baseball club was victorious in the game played Saturday afternoon with the Hartford U. B. team. The score being 11 to 7. These two teams are tied for first place in the Dayton S. S. Baseball League.

Misses Dot and May Koogler were guests of their aunt, Mrs. Thomas Moore (Effie Koogler) at Newport, Ky., from Saturday until Monday.

Miss Sarah Sipe, 83, passed away Wednesday afternoon at her home near Zimmerman. She had been in very poor health for some time, and was operated on about a year ago for hernia, but had not recovered from the operation. Miss Sipe was born and lived all her life in the house where she died. Surviving are her brothers, Dan, with whom she lived, John and George of Indiana; Sam and Andy of Dayton. Two brothers, Oliver of Dayton, and Jacob of near Zimmerman died a few years ago. Other brothers and a sister passed away a number of years earlier.

The Biggest Thing In Our Business Is Service

When we say we're here to serve you we mean more than just looking at your battery, putting in a little water and saying goodbye.

Service, the way we say it, means doing everything we possibly can to see that you get every last mile and fraction of a mile out of that battery. That's our business!

Never mind if your battery isn't a Willard. We'll look after it just as faithfully as if it were. We want you to know what service at Battery Headquarters is like!

HEAT RESPONSIBLE FOR THIRD DEATH

Cleveland, Sept. 9—Believed to have lost her reason through the excessive heat, Irene Sturgess, 16, is missing today after having left at her home a note reading: "Goodbye; I am going to drown myself."

If her threat is carried out, it will make the total number of heat victims three here. When the thermometer reached 92 yesterday the highest September record since 1897 two men succumbed. They were Robt R. Johnson 30, and Edward Bruce, 62

At noon today the thermometer stood 89 degrees, slightly cooler than yesterday. The humidity was less and there was a slight breeze.

Ed Bailey has purchased a new Overland touring car.

Mr. Gibbons, who recently purchased the William Coy farm on the Shakertown pike, was the victim of chicken thieves who broke into his poultry house and took 13 Rhode Island Red chickens.

Bob Lafong and wife, and Sarah Smart have moved into part of the Helmer residence.

Frank Wagner, Sr., is having a new bungalow built on his farm north of Zimmerman, which he will occupy when completed. Dan Dice of Alpha is the contractor.

Misses Dottie and May Koogler, spent from Saturday until Monday with their aunt, Mrs. Thomas Moore, at Newport, Ky.

Miss Lida Ferguson delightfully entertained the Sunshine Class of Beaver Sunday School at her beautiful country home near Zimmerman, Wednesday afternoon. There were about twenty-five members of the class and friends present. Miss Cannan, of Dayton, gave an interesting talk. Misses Josephine Ankeney and Mrs. Lewis (Esta Benner) tied for first prize in the Travel Contest. Canteloupes garnished with nuts were served as refreshments.

Howard Owens was honor guest at a picnic at Overlook Park near West Milton given in honor of his birthday anniversary. The following were present, his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Helmer, sisters, Miss Pearl Owens, and Mrs. Harvey Holverstott and family of Xenia; and Mrs. Carl Hecklar and family of Dayton; brother Carl and Willard Helmer, also Miss Nellie Wilson.

Rev. Leatherman, of Cincinnati, preached an excelent sermon at the Church of the Brethren here recently, to a large appreciative audience. Among those present were, Martin Zimmerman, wife and baby, of Dayton; Mr. Zimmerman was a former resident of Zimmerman.

The Young Peoples' Society held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Chester and Ralph Johnson Thursday evening. The following officers were elected: Homer Koogler, president; Howard Bailey, secretary; Dot Koogler, treasurer; Ralph Johnson, choirister. After the business meeting a very pleasant evening was spent in various games and contests, the winners in the latter being Miss May Koogler, Norman Huston and Homer Koogler.

The Zimmerman Sunday School baseball club was victorious in the game played Saturday afternoon with the Hartford U. B. team. The score being 11 to 7. These two teams are tied for first place in the Dayton S. S. Baseball League.

Misses Dot and May Koogler were guests of their aunt, Mrs. Thomas Moore (Effie Koogler) at Newport, Ky., from Saturday until Monday.

Miss Sarah Sipe, 83, passed away Wednesday afternoon at her home near Zimmerman. She had been in very poor health for some time, and was operated on about a year ago for hernia, but had not recovered from the operation. Miss Sipe was born and lived all her life in the house where she died. Surviving are her brothers, Dan, with whom she lived, John and George of Indiana; Sam and Andy of Dayton. Two brothers, Oliver of Dayton, and Jacob of near Zimmerman died a few years ago. Other brothers and a sister passed away a number of years earlier.

EIGHT DIRECTORS OF C. OF C. CHOSEN BY MEMBERSHIP

Eight new directors for the Chamber of Commerce, were elected in the final count of regular ballots by a committee Friday afternoon.

The new directors of the organization are Karl Bloom, E. D. Beatty George Little, E. R. Bryant, Elbert L Babb, James Wilson 3rd, Paul Fetz and D. W. Cherry. They will assume office at once and will meet with the remaining four members of the board to elect officers and organize for the year, at a special meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Monday night at eight o'clock

So close was the voting in the cases of three candidates that lots had to be drawn to fix the successful men. Paul Fetz, D. W. Cherry and F. L. Smith were tied in the count of ballots, and lots drawn placed Mr Fetz and Mr. Cherry on the board Mr. Smith's position makes him practically an alternate if any member of the board should resign.

The new directors take the place of H. A. Higgins, H. S. LeSourd, J W. Prugh, Judge J. Carl Marshall Dr. R. Kent Finley and R. A. Kelly whose terms expired this month, and C. A. Weaver and J. Kenneth Williamson, whose resignations have been accepted. The eight new directors elected from a field of 16 nominees, will serve during the coming year which C. A. Kelble, Dr. R. R. McClellan, Findley M. Torrence and W. E. Boring. These four have one more year to serve while the eight new directors were elected for the two-year term.

When the new officers are elected Monday night they will succeed three who are serving at present. The present officers, who have served for the past year, are H. A. Higgins president; Charles A. Kleble, vice-president and H. S. LeSourd, treasurer. Miss Janice Owens has been secretary of the organization

MRS. W. G. HARDING FIGHTING FOR LIFE

The executive mansion was awake throughout the night. Cabinet officers, senators and others prominent in public life of the capital called until midnight to express their concern and offer their services. Secret service operatives and newspaper correspondents maintained an all night vigil.

Telegrams and messages of sympatny and prayer for recovery poured into the White House last night and this morning in a never ending stream. They came from all parts of the country and from many persons in many walks of life.

Mrs. Harding's condition was described this morning by the attending physicians as such that a quick turn might come at any time.

A definite turn is expected within 24 hours in any event.

The general health of Mrs. Harding has not been good for some time. In 1913, following a surgical operation, she developed hydronephrosis and was seriously ill. There followed recurrences of these attacks at varying periods. In 1916 there was a particularly acute one and again just before coming to the White House she was subjected to a severe attack.

Since coming to Washington Mrs. Harding has taken an ever increasing activity in social aid welfare work in the capital. She has been a frequent visitor at the city's hospitals, particularly those caring for war veterans.

The opening of the White House gates to the public, after their being closed since long during the Wilson administration, resulted in a never ending flow of visitors through the executive grounds and mansion. It has been a common sight to see the mistress of the White House stroll democratically out into the grounds and shake hands with casual tourists.

Mrs. Harding has for years accompanied the president upon his speech making and campaigning trips often standing in line for several hours shaking hands. It was noticed that after these efforts she generally was forced to retire for a time, because of the strain of being on her feet and receiving people for so long a period.

Styles BY LENORE

Simple frocks find favor with the very young, not only because they are smart but because one may find comfort in them when playing.

Dark blue linen is the material used for this attractive little model which I find in a New York shop devoted to dressing the fastidious tot. It is softened at the neck by a series of graduated tucks, which serves also to take up the fullness. And a bright red cord is drawn through the button holes at each side of the little dress, where it is so cleverly cut, and tied in a knot with streaming ends.

BRINGING UP FATHER

BY GEORGE M'MANUS

NAMES OF NINETEEN CANDIDATES WILL BE PLACED ON ELECTION BALLOTS; ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR TREASURER FILES FRIDAY

The names of nineteen new candidates will be placed on the regular election ballots November 7, as the result of a number of nominating petitions filed with Carl Ervin, clerk of the election board, before midnight Friday.

The petitions seek to place the names of two independent county candidates, six Socialist state candidates, ten state candidates of the Prohibition party and one independent state candidate on the tickets this fall.

With the filing of the petitions Friday night it became known that Elbert L. Babb, whose independent candidacy for the short term as County Treasurer was announced, will be opposed for election by the present treasurer, Mrs. Carrie L. Faulkner. who also filed nominating petitions which have been in circulation several days.

Judge Florence Allen, of Cleveland, well known as a prominent woman jurist, had some active workers in Greene County, as her petition of candidacy for the state supreme court bench indicates. Her nominating petitions carried the names of about 375 Greene County voters. Friday night was the last time for filing petitions with the board of elections to place further names on the ballots, and the tickets, with the regularly nominated Republican and Democratic candidates, are now closed.

Neither the Socialists nor Prohibitionists nominated candidates for the county ticket. The six Socialists nominated for state offices by the petitions are Millard Price, Toledo, candidate for governor; T. H. Davies, Hobbard, lieutenant governor; George W. Markert, Mt. Healthy, secretary of state; Sidney Yellwin, Cleveland, state treasurer; August Malm, Cleveland, United States Senator, and Joseph W. Sharts, Dayton, attorney general. The prohibition state ticket is composed of Aaron S. Watkins, Cincinnati, governor; Robert G. Reed, Cincinnati, lieutenant goveror; Elias Jenkins, Youngstown. secretary of state; Harry M. Dershem, Gettysburg, state treasurer; Thomas W. Shreve, Martins Ferry, attorney general; George S. Hawke, Hamilton Co., judge of supreme court; Orilas G. White, Lancaster, United States Senator; and Homer K. Miller, Dayton; Della Freeze, Toledo and David F. White. East Liverpool. members of congress at large.

The state Socialist ticket petitions carried about 200 names and the nominating petitions of the state Prohibition candidates bore about 117 names. The petition of Elbert L. Babb carried about 250 names and Mrs. Faulkner's petitions bore about 300 names.

The filing of two candidates for the short term as County Treasurer, complicates the Treasury situation, and will require voters to mark their ballots for two Treasurer candidates out of a field of four. The unusual situation in the Treasurer's office began with the resignation of J. E. Sutton as deputy treasurer and the appointment of Elbert Babb as deputy by Treasurer John H. McVay. At Mr. McVay's death, the county commissioners did not appoint his deputy as Treasurer but named Mrs. Faulkner, whereupon Babb resigned as deputy and Lawrence McKee was appointed to that position.

According to law the appointment for an unexpired term only continues until the time of the regular election. Then if there are no candidates for the term from regular election date until the candidate elected for the regular term takes his seat, the commissioners must reappoint their former appointee or appoint a new treasurer. In this case there will be two candidates for the short term, which will run from November 7, 1922, to August 6, 1923, and the appointment by the commissioners is thus rendered unnecessary.

Voters can therefore cast their ballots of one or other of these two short-term candidates, and at the same time can also vote for one of the candidates for the regular term. the successful candidates to be seated August 6, and to serve two years. The candidates for the regular term are Frank Jackson, Republican, and Harry A. Higgins, Democrat.

DEPUTY SHERIFF AWAITING TRIAL

Cincinnati, September 9.—Jake Russell, 35, deputy sheriff of Somerset, Pulaski County, Kentucky ,was in the Covington jail today awaiting the trial on a charge of violating a federal injunction after district attorney Sawyer A. Smith swore to a warrant for his arrest. He was brought to Covington on Friday by J. A. Coleman, deputy U. S. Marshal at Somerset, who said that the sheriff's arrest followed an affair in which he shot a Cincnnati, New Orleans and Texas Paciic railroad employe whom he shot a Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railroad employe whom he went to arrest for breach of the peace and who attempted to escape.

District Attorney Smith said that it was unlawful for Russell to fire because the man sought was chrged only with a misdemeanor and he dded that the deputy's act constituted contempt because he fired only to intimidate and terrorize railrod employes in the roundhouse where Taylor worked.

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELPS

NELLIE STRUGGLES WITH HER NEW PROBLEM

Chapter 66

The maid brought Nellie tea and toast, also a message from Donald Horne, hoping her headache would soon pass away. Later he sent her a box of roses, which she carelessly thrust aside although he had been wilfully extravagant in their purchase.

All night she lay wide-eyed facing her problem—the age-old problem of love; of a girl giving her heart to one out of her station of life. She did not for a moment think it might be returned. It was a hopeless love one that must be hidden from its object, from the world.

At times she felt a rush of joy that she loved; then anguish as she conjured pictures of him married to someone, his cousin perhaps or one of her friends. A girl of his own kind beautiful, clever, in society. The thought was torture. If he wouldn't marry she could bear it, she thought He wouldn't belong to her, but neither would another woman possess him.

When she looked in the mirror as she brushed her hair she was shocked at the ravages of the night. She looked ill. Deep circles under her eyes and pale cheeks made her very unlike the blooming Nellie she usually saw reflected there.

She seldom used rouge, but now she dabbed a bit on her cheeks, then dusted her face with powder. She felt she could not bear any comments upon her looks, and Miss Jones, as well as Cora—whom she saw every day—would surely notice and ask if she were ill.

Miss Jones did notice, but wisely said nothing, simply remarking that Mr. Fallon had sent word he would remain at home that day, but would be down the day following.

"The elevator man said he had a very close call," she told Nellie. "Someone who saw the accident told him. But a "miss is as good as a mile,' and he was fortunate to get off with only the shock. I can't understand him being careless; probably was thinking of something; so didn't see the other car."

After this explanation she gave Nellie work that kept her not only busy but hustling.

"She'll get over it if she doesn't have time to think about him," she reasoned. "I hope Donald Horne will help. He's more than half in love with her now—perhaps—" and middle-aged Miss Jones amused herself by visioning a romance that ended when Donald and Nellie were happily married.

Nellie lunched with Cora, and in reply to her questions told of Mr Fallon's accident.

"It must have frightened you when they brought him in" Cora said.

"It did—terribly—and Miss Jones too," Nellie admitted, then changed the subject, fearing more questions. She was keeping a close hold upon herself. She would need to get her feelings under control before Mr Fallon came back.

When Mr. Fallon appeared the next day, a little paler than usual, but otherwise appearing none the worse for his accident, he said:

"They frightened you, Miss Riley, bringing me in as they did. I am sorry."

"I thought you—were dead," she stammered.

"I'm not so easy killed," he smiled at her. "You fainted."

"Yes, just for a moment." Nellie had not thought he would recall he silly faint. "I never fainted before," she naively added, then blushed because of the implication.

"You look a bit done up yet. Are you sure you are able to work?"

"Oh, yes!" she returned eagerly then in her old saucy manner: "You havn't any red cheeks either."

Mr. Fallon, Jr., laughed gayly, ye as he turned away a soft, tender look crossed his face, and more than once that morning he stopped to gaze at the profile of the girl as she bent over her work—the girl who had fainted because of him—her fear for him—perhaps.

But Nellie never once looked at him. She was afraid he might read her secret, it was so new—so new Her face, her eyes might tell him.

EIGHT DIRECTORS OF C. OF C. CHOSEN BY MEMBERSHIP

Eight new directors for the Chamber of Commerce, were elected in the final count of regular ballots by a committee Friday afternoon.

The new directors of the organization are Karl Bloom, E. D. Beatty George Little, E. R. Bryant, Elbert L Babb, James Wilson 3rd, Paul Fetz and D. W. Cherry. They will assume office at once and will meet with the remaining four members of the board to elect officers and organize for the year, at a special meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Monday night at eight o'clock

So close was the voting in the cases of three candidates that lots had to be drawn to fix the successful men. Paul Fetz, D. W. Cherry and F. L. Smith were tied in the count of ballots, and lots drawn placed Mr Fetz and Mr. Cherry on the board Mr. Smith's position makes him practically an alternate if any member of the board should resign.

The new directors take the place of H. A. Higgins, H. S. LeSourd, J W. Prugh, Judge J. Carl Marshall Dr. R. Kent Finley and R. A. Kelly whose terms expired this month, and C. A. Weaver and J. Kenneth Williamson, whose resignations have been accepted. The eight new directors elected from a field of 16 nominees, will serve during the coming year which C. A. Kelble, Dr. R R. McClellan, Findley M. Torrence and W. E. Boring. These four have one more year to serve while the eight new directors were elected for the two-year term.

When the new officers are elected Monday night they will succeed three who are serving at present. The present officers, who have served for the past year, are H. A. Higgins president; Charles A. Kleble, vice-president and H. S. LeSourd, treasurer. Miss Janice Owens has been secretary of the organization

The executive mansion was awake throughout the night. Cabinet officers, senators and others prominent in public life of the capital called until midnight to express their concern and offer their services. Secret service operatives and newspaper correspondents maintained an all night vigil.

Telegrams and messages of sympatny and prayer for recovery poured into the White House last night and this morning in a never ending stream. They came from all parts of the country and from many persons in many walks of life.

Mrs. Harding's condition was described this morning by the attending physicians as such that a quick turn might come at any time.

A definite turn is expected within 24 hours in any event.

The general health of Mrs. Harding has not been good for some time. In 1913, following a surgical operation, she developed hydronephrosis and was seriously ill. There followed recurrences of these attacks at varying periods. In 1916 there was a particularly acute one and again just before coming to the White House she was subjected to a severe attack.

Since coming to Washington Mrs. Harding has taken an ever increasing activity in social aid welfare work in the capital. She has been a frequent visitor at the city's hospitals, particularly those caring for war veterans.

The opening of the White House gates to the public, after their being closed since long during the Wilson administration, resulted in a never ending flow of visitors through the executive grounds and mansion. It has been a common sight to see the mistress of the White House stroll democratically out into the grounds and shake hands with casual tourists.

Mrs. Harding has for years accompanied the president upon his speech making and campaigning trips often standing in line for several hours shaking hands. It was noticed that after these efforts she generally was forced to retire for a time, because of the strain of being on her feet and receiving people for so long a period.

Styles BY LENORE

Simple frocks find favor with the very young, not only because they are smart but because one may find comfort in them when playing.

Dark blue linen is the material used for this attractive little model which I find in a New York shop devoted to dressing the fastidious tot. It is softened at the neck by a series of graduated tucks, which serves also to take up the fullness. And a bright red cord is drawn through the button holes at each side of the little dress, where it is so cleverly cut, and tied in a knot with streaming ends.

BRINGING UP FATHER BY GEORGE M'MANUS

NAMES OF NINETEEN CANDIDATES WILL BE PLACED ON ELECTION BALLOTS; ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR TREASURER FILES FRIDAY

The names of nineteen new candidates will be placed on the regular election ballots November 7, as the result of a number of nominating petitions filed with Carl Ervin, clerk of the election board, before midnight Friday.

The petitions seek to place the names of two independent county candidates, six Socialist state candidates, ten state candidates of the Prohibition party and one independent state candidate on the tickets this fall.

With the filing of the petitions Friday night it became known that Elbert L. Babb, whose independent candidacy for the short term as County Treasurer was announced, will be opposed for election by the present treasurer, Mrs. Carrie L. Faulkner. who also filed nominating petitions which have been in circulation several days.

Judge Florence Allen, of Cleveland, well known as a prominent woman jurist, had some active workers in Greene County, as her petition of candidacy for the state supreme court bench indicates. Her nominating petitions carried the names of about 375 Greene County voters. Friday night was the last time for filing petitions with the board of elections to place further names on the ballots, and the tickets, with the regularly nominated Republican and Democratic candidates, are now closed.

Neither the Socialists nor Prohibitionists nominated candidates for the county ticket. The six Socialists nominated for state offices by the petitions are Millard Price, Toledo, candidate for governor; T. H. Davies, Hobbard, lieutenant governor; George W. Markert, Mt. Healthy, secretary of state; Sidney Yellwin, Cleveland, state treasurer; August Malm, Cleveland, United States Senator, and Joseph W. Sharts, Dayton, attorney general. The prohibition state ticket is composed of Aaron S. Watkins, Cincinnati, governor; Robert G. Reed, Cincinnati, lieutenant goveror; Elias Jenkins, Youngstown. secretary of state; Harry M. Dershem, Gettysburg, state treasurer; Thomas W. Shreve, Martins Ferry, attorney general; George S. Hawke, Hamilton Co., judge of supreme court; Orilas G. White, Lancaster, United States Senator; and Homer K. Miller, Dayton; Della Freeze, Toledo and David F. White. East Liverpool. members of congress at large.

The state Socialist ticket petitions carried about 200 names and the nominating petitions of the state Prohibition candidates bore about 117 names. The petition of Elbert L. Babb carried about 250 names and Mrs. Faulkner's petitions bore about 300 names.

The filing of two candidates for the short term as County Treasurer, complicates the Treasury situation, and will require voters to mark their ballots for two Treasurer candidates out of a field of four. The unusual situation in the Treasurer's office began with the resignation of J. E. Sutton as deputy treasurer and the appointment of Elbert Babb as deputy by Treasurer John H. McVay. At Mr. McVay's death, the county commissioners did not appoint his deputy as Treasurer but named Mrs. Faulkner, whereupon Babb resigned as deputy and Lawrence McKee was appointed to that position.

According to law the appointment for an unexpired term only continues until the time of the regular election. Then if there are no candidates for the term from regular election date until the candidate elected for the regular term takes his seat, the commissioners must reappoint their former appointee or appoint a new treasurer. In this case there will be two candidates for the short term, which will run from November 7, 1922, to August 6, 1923, and the appointment by the commissioners is thus rendered unnecessary.

Voters can therefore cast their ballots of one or other of these two short-term candidates, and at the same time can also vote for one of the candidates for the regular term. the successful candidates to be seated August 6. and to serve two years. The candidates for the regular term are Frank Jackson, Republican, and Harry A. Higgins, Democrat.

DEPUTY SHERIFF AWAITING TRIAL

Cincinnati, September 9.—Jake Russell, 35, deputy sheriff of Somerset, Pulaski County, Kentucky ,was in the Covington jail today awaiting the trial on a charge of violating a federal injunction after district attorney Sawyer A. Smith swore to a warrant for his arrest. He was brought to Covington on Friday by J. A. Coleman, deputy U. S. Marshal at Somerset, who said that the sheriff's arrest followed an affair in which he shot a Cincnnati, New Orleans and Texas Paciic railroad employe whom he shot a Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railroad employe whom he went to arrest for breach of the peace rd who attempted to escape.

District Attorney Smith said that it was unlawful for Russell to fire because the man sought was chrged only with a misdemeanor and he dded that the deputy's act constituted contempt because he fired only to intimidate and terrorize railrod employes in the roundhouse where Taylor worked.

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELPS

NELLIE STRUGGLES WITH HER NEW PROBLEM

Chapter 66

The maid brought Nellie tea and toast, also a message from Donald Horne, hoping her headache would soon pass away. Later ne sent her a box of roses, which she carelessly thrust aside although he had been wilfully extravagant in their purchase.

All night she lay wide-eyed facing her problem—the age-old problem of love; of a girl giving her heart to one out of her station of life. She did not for a moment think it might be returned. It was a hopeless love one that must be hidden from its object, from the world.

At times she felt a rush of joy that she loved; then anguish as she conjured pictures of him married to someone, his cousin perhaps or one of her friends. A girl of his own kind beautiful, clever, in society. The thought was torture. If he wouldn't marry she could bear it, she thought He wouldn't belong to her, but neither would another woman possess him.

When she looked in the mirror as she brushed her hair she was shocked at the ravages of the night. She looked ill. Deep circles under her eyes and pale cheeks made her very unlike the blooming Nellie she usually saw reflected there.

She seldom used rouge, but now she dabbed a bit on her cheeks, then dusted her face with powder. She felt she could not bear any comments upon her looks, and Miss Jones, as well as Cora—whom she saw every day—would surely notice and ask if she were ill.

Miss Jones did notice, but wisely said nothing, simply remarking that Mr. Fallon had sent word he would remain at home that day, but would be down the day following.

"The elevator man said he had a very close call," she told Nellie. "Someone who saw the accident told him. But a "miss is as good as a mile,' and he was fortunate to get off with only the shock. I can't understand him being careless; probably was thinking of something; so didn't see the other car."

After this explanation she gave Nellie work that kept her not only busy but hustling.

"She'll get over it if she doesn't have time to think about him," she reasoned. "I hope Donald Horne will help. He's more than half in love with her now—perhaps—" and middle-aged Miss Jones amused herself by visioning a romance that ended when Donald and Nellie were happily married.

Nellie lunched with Cora, and in reply to her questions told of Mr Fallon's accident.

"It must have frightened you when they brought him in" Cora said.

"It did—terribly—and Miss Jones too," Nellie admitted, then changed the subject, fearing more quesions. She was keeping a close hold upon herself. She would need to get her feelings under control before Mr Fallon came back.

When Mr. Fallon appeared the next day, a little paler than usual, but otherwise appearing none the worse for his accident, he said:

"They frightened you, Miss Riley, bringing me in as they did. I am sorry."

"I thought you—were dead," she stammered.

"I'm not so easy killed," he smiled at her. "You fainted."

"Yes, just for a moment." Nellie had not thought he would recall her silly faint. "I never fainted before," she naively added, then blushed because of the implication.

"You look a bit done up yet. Are you sure you are able to work?"

"Oh, yes!" she returned eagerly, then in her old saucy manner: "You havn't any red cheeks either."

Mr. Fallon, Jr., laughed gayly, yet as he turned away a soft, tender look crossed his face, and more than once that morning he stopped to gaze at the profile of the girl as she bent over her work—the girl who had fainted because of him—her fear for him—perhaps.

But Nellie never once looked at him. She was afraid he might read her secret, it was so new—so new. Her face, her eyes might tell him.

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK.

Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.

Its this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

Here is a woman who is so grateful and glad to be relieved from a painful and nerve racking physical condition that she wishes to tell all sick women.

RED CROSS CONSIDERS PLANS FOR RELIEF WORK IN NEAR EAST

Need in War Zone Overshadows All Else When Annual Convention Opens in Washington On Monday.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Plans for immediate relief work in the Near East overshadowed all else when the annual convention of the American Red Cross was opened here today by its chairman, Judge John Barton Payne. Thousands of delegates were in attendance from all parts of the country.

Judge Payne read a letter from President Harding, who was unable to attend the opening session, expressing satisfaction because of the organizations unfailing strength and readiness for every emergency."

In announring the action of the executive committee of the Red Cross in ordering relief work in the Near East regardless of the cost, Judge Payne said:

"The amount involved no one knows. No special sum was appropriated. The instructions of the committee are that the job be done. If it takes all the money we have it will be spent —if it takes more we will get it."

"It has been most gratifying." President Harding said in his letter to Judge Payne. "That your executive committe has appropriated funds and has taken steps to render efficient service in the great and appealing emergency which has arisen in the Near East.

"The readiness of your organization to meet this most distressing situation adds to our gratification in being able to turn to a great organization prepared for any task.

"The consciousness of this capacity to do things must contribute to the enthusiastic spirit which imbues the American Red Cross throughout every unit, and the knowledge adds to the pride and confidence of the people of the United States in having such an agency to give expression to human sympathy and helpfulness."

This letter was written by the president after he had been informed by Judge Payne that the executive committee of the national organization, at a meeting held before the convention opened this morning had authorized him to take such steps as he deemed necessary to carry out relief work in the Near East. Judge Payne was given carteblanche to continue relief activities already started pending a general appeal for funds.

TURK CAVALRY MOVES TOWARD CONSTANTINOPLE

Reinforcements Send to Kili Only 35 Miles From City it is Reported

EXPECT DECISION

Final Agreement On Anglo-French Compromise Awaited.

London, Oct. 9.—The American dreadnaught Utah, which has been at anchor at Gibraltor nearly a week awaiting a destroyer flotilla from the United States has been ordered to proceed immediately to the Near East said a dispatch from Gibraltar this afternoon.

Washington, Oct. 9. — General postal service between the United States and Greek postal sectors including Smyrna has been suspended Postmaster general Work announced today. Letters or other correspondence addressed toAsia Minor or Smyrna still held in Greece from American citizens will be returned to the senders in the Uniited States.

Paris, Oct. 9.—Turkish troops that violated the neutral zone on the Turkish straits at Ismid, south of Constantinople have withdrawn, according to announcement made by the foreign office this afternoon. Foreign office officials said they had considered the Ismid incident closed and no longer a source of anxiety. According to official advices the commander of the Turks at Ismid said he had mistaken the exact location of the neutral boundary line and crossed it without knowing it. He withdrew as soon as the British military authorities at Constantinople demanded it.

Constantinople, Oct. 9.—Turkish cavalry and infantry today were reported to be moving northward towards Constantinople past the Ismid peninsula. Turkish reinforcements are on their way to Kili, only 35 miles east of this city. Kili is the Black Sea port within the neutral zone where Turkish cavalry appeared on Saturday.

The Turks appear to be drawing a line from the city of Ismid, in a northeasterly direction to Kili.

Allied officials traveling between this city and Mudania the seat of the Near East armistice negotiations pass back and forth on warships.

It is understood that the armistice conference today will discuss details of the Anglo-French compromise agreement. It is supported by the Italians.

So far as known when this dispatch was written Mustapha Kemal Pasha, commander in chief of the Turkish army, has not yet reached Mudania.

The British military authorities have suppressed ferry service across the Bosphorus from the Asiatic mainland to Constantinople.

London, Oct. 9.—A definite decision by the Mudania conference, based upon the Anglo-French compromise agreement and the fresh instructions sent to the allied generals at Constantinople is expected within the next 48 hours.

The cabinet met again today to discuss the Near East. Two unfavorable developements were reported from Constantinople.

1—Turkish troops that violated the neutral zone in the Ismid sector are repeating just outside the gates of Constantinople the same offensive tactics they pursued at Chanak.

2—The Turkish cavalry that was withdrawn from the positions facing the British at Chanak is being replaced with infantry.

War office officials believe that Mustapha Kemal Pasha is determined either to have war or else is attempting to stir up fresh differences between France and England.

It is anticipated here that General Sir Charles Harrington, British commander at Constantinople and British delegate at Mudania, will take firm steps to deal with the latest Turkish violations of the neutral zone. This was expected to be one of the first subjects taken up when the armistice negotiations were renewed.

British government officials made light of the bitter press campaign which has developed against Premier Lloyd George. They ridiculed the attack of J. H. Garvin, editor of the Observer, who demanded Lloyd George's retirement. According to members of the government the cabinet is unanimous upon the Near East policy and there are no dissensions.

SHOT BY BANDITS

Cincinnati, Oct. 9—Samuel McDine, 23, was shot and killed in a restaurant here early yesterday morning when he was so startled by the sudden appearance of three negro bandits that he lost his balance and caught at the lunch counter stool on which he was seated in order to save himself a fall. One of the negroes seeing McDine's hand dart toward his hip and misinterpreting the movement, fired the fatal shot. The bandits got a little more than $12.

TIERNAN SENDS WIFE TO MOTHER

Still denying the paternity of the child, Professor John P. Tiernan, Professor of Law in Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind., is shown as he sent Mrs. Tiernan back to her mother's home in Michigan. The South Bend Court ruled that Tiernan and not Harry Poulin, well-to-do haberdasher, was the father of the baby.

AMERICAN LEGION TO URGE PROGRAM OF LEGISLATION FOR U. S. CONGRESS

Meeting Starting Next Monday to Stress Desires and Wants of Ex-Service Men Before Congress at New Session.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The full weight of the American legion is to be thrown toward securing the adoption of a constructive legislative program at the next session of congress which will meet the wants and desires of the country ex service men.

Aside from the so called soldiers bonus, the fight over which is expected to be renewed as soon as congress reconvenes, two outstanding features of the proposed program are:

1—Enactment of a law which would draft not only fighting men but labor and the rest of the nations man-power in a national emergency such as war.

2—Creation of a new committee in both senate and house which would deal exclusively with legislation affecting world war veterans instead of bills and other measures involving them being referred to a dozen different committees as is now the practice.

With the cooperation of ex-service men, who are members of congress, leaders of the American Legion and other ex-service organizations hope to see a program adopted which will give the four million men who served in the United States army during the world war a larger voice in the writing of legislation which directly concerns them.

They point out that labor, farmers and other organizations are continuously engaged in efforts to secure legislation of direct benefits to them, and they declare ex-service men's organizations have just as much right to ask congress to consider them collectively without being accused of seeking "class legislation."

The opening of the American legion national convention at New Orleans Monday next will find the legislative committee of that organization already at work upon the program which it is proposed to press upon congress when the next session gets under way.

AMERICAN REFORM PROGRAM SUCCESS

Washington, Oct. 9.—The entire American reform program, proposed and vigorously prosecuted by Major General Enoch H. Crowder, in Cuba, has gone through in accordance with American demands, the state department was advised today by general Crowder.

The program embraced numerous legislative and administrative reforms in Cuba's internal government including a $50,000,000 loan to the Cuban government.

PANIC IN PCTURE HOUSE IS NARROWLY AVERTED

Akron, Oct. 9.—A panic in the Orpheum moving picture theater here was narrowly averted last night when the city lights were suddenly switched off and on again. A flash on the screen frightened the audience which made a rush for the exits. The management quelled the alarm by announcing that there was no fire. An electric spark ignited the film in the operator's booth and 800 feet of it was destroyed. The theater was closed and money refunded.

FIRE OSS IN LOSS ANGELES WILL REACH $200,000

Los Ageles, Oct. 9.—Fed by the contents of thirty large oil storage tanks a fierce fire swept the plant of the Richfield Oil company in the industrial district here today, causing damage estimated by fire chief J. Ralph Scott at $200.000.

EDITOR OF WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SHOOTS BARTENDER IN QUARREL

Slaying Follows Quarrel in Front of Home in Jamaica, New York on Monday—Eye Witness Tells Story of Shooting.

New York, Oct. 9.—Harry Sutpin, owner and editor of the Queensboro Bulletin, a weekly newspaper published in Jamaica, today shot and killed William Biermann, a bartender in front of his, Sutphin's apartment house in Jamaica. Sutphin was deputy Public Works Commissioner of Queensboro ten years ago. Both men had been together for hours, according to police. They hired a taxicab about 7 o'clock this morning and the chauffeur said they appeared to be intoxicated.

Sutphin is 64 years old and Bierman, 28. According to Martin Siebert Jr., driver of the taxicab, the two men got into his car shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and Sutphin told him to take them to the Sutphin home. Then they arrived there Sutphin had changed his mind and ordered Siebert to drive to a restaurant in Jamaica. After eating the two emerged and told the taxi driver to take them to the Sutphin home.

Both men got out, Siebert said when they reached the house and leaned against the front door of the house. Sutphin was crying, Siebert said, and he heard him say "Queensy has been abusing me all night." "Queensy' is the nickname by which Bierman was known.

"They talked together for a while," Siebert told the police, "but I couldn't hear what they were saying. Finally I heard Queensy say to Sutphin, "you go to bed.' Then all of a sudden Sutphin took his right hand from his pocket. I thought he was going to shake hands with Queensy. Instead I heard a shot fired. I saw Queensy drop to the sidewalk and Sutphin was holding a revolver in his hand.

Siebert said Sutphin told him to take Bierman to a hospital but instead he went to a phone and called the police.

Charles E. Stoval, janitor of the apartment where Sutphin lived, said he heard an argument in front of the building a short time before the shooting. He declared he heard Sutphin accuse Bierman of "picking on him" and that he saw Bierman raise his hand as if to strike Sutphin. The shooting followed, Stovall said.

WEALTHY BANDIT TURNS PREACHER

LIONS AND THEN MONKEYS! WHAT NEXT IN STATE?

Akron, Oct. 9.—With Hardin County farmers hunting lions, residents of a portion of Summit County are trying to locate a monkey. It has been seen by a score of Cuyahoga Falls residents. Saturday Chief of Police Russell Duffy came on it entertaining a flock of chickens. It escaped the officer. Sunday Mayor George Hordmen saw the little animal.

Citizens of the suburb who are known to own pets, have been questioned but declare their animals are intact. A general hunt was started this morning. As yet there have been no developments similar to the "murders of the Rue Morgue."

STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR OPENS MEETING IN CANTON

More Than 400 Delegates Attend Convention Starting Monday.

Canton, O., Oct. 9.—More than 400 delegates, representing trades unions from all parts of Ohio were present when the annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor opened here this morning. Mayor C. C. Curtis welcomed the convention in an address to the opening session. H. C. Witter, former mayor of Canton, addressed the delegates in behalf of organized labor of Canton and responses by officers of the federation were included in the first meeting. The convention will get down to business late today and take up a discussion of several important matters faced by Ohio labor.

Among the matters to come before the federation are a discussion of the use of injunctions in combatting strikes, which officials of the federation hold to be a violation of constitutional rights, The Voistead law will also be before the house and the stand of labor on prohibition is expected to be definitely outlined before the convention ends.

Rev. W. H. Longsworth, pastor of the first Congregation church addressed 200 delegates at a special labor service in his church Sunday evening. Secretary Donnelly, President John Moore, Columbus, and other state officials have been in Canton since Saturday preparing for the opening of the convention.

HOTEL FIRE FATAL TO ONE; LOSS PLACED AT CLOSE TO $100,000

Park Hotel at Magnetic Springs Burns Down Saturday Night

Delaware, Oct. 9.—One man was burned to death and property damage of $100,000 resulted from a fire which destroyed the Park Hotel at Magnetic Springs near here Saturday night.

The dead man is H. W. Porter, 63 night engineer at the hotel. He was sleeping in the laundry department where the fire broke out and was unable to escape.

Fifty guests were housed in the structure and all escaped, some of them losing clothing and other possessions in their haste to leave the building. They were quartered here for the night at other nearby hotels which cluster about the springs.

A bath house, also was destroyed before local fire fighters armed only with a hand engine could control the flames. Richwood, Delaware and Marion were called upon for help, the latter city sending an engine which arrived too late to save the hotel. The annex a 20-room structure, which stands about 100 feet from the main hotel, was saved.

Origin of the fire has not been determined. The blaze was discovered about 2 p. m. by Mrs. Clara Downard, head waitress at the hotel, and had gained considerable headway at that time. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Christopher Magee, Jr the owner indicated that it would be rebuilt.

GOVERNMENT BOND ISSUE ANNOUNCED

Washington, Oct. 9.—The first government bond issue since the war was announced last night by the treasury.

Secretary Mellon offered for subscription an issue of about $500,000,000 of 4 1-4 per cent,, 30 year treasury bonds as part of the program for refunding short term debt.

The new issue will be dated Oct 16, 1922, bearing interest at 4 1-4 per cent annually, payable April 15 and Oct. 15 on a semi-annal basis. The bonds will mature Oct. 15, 1952, but may be redeemed at the option of the United States after Oct. 15 1947.

The last previous bond issue offered by the treasury was the fourth Liberty Loan in October 1918. It carried interest at 4 1-4 per cent to mature in 20 years and amounted to nearly $7,000,000,000. Bearer bonds of the new issue with interest coupons attcahed will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1000, $5000 and $10,000, $50,000 and $100,000. All will carry the usual tax exemption provisions.

NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY HELD FOR MURDER OF PREACHER AND WOMAN

Sensational Climax to Mysterious Crime in New Jersey Reached Monday After Case Resolves Into One of Mistaken Identity.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 9.—The mysterious double murder of Rev. Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, wealthy rector of the fashionable Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, and his beautiful choir leader, Mrs. James Mills,—a crime of such dramatic qualities that it aroused intense interest—reached a sensational climax today when Clifford Hayes, a 19 year old boy, was arrested on a charge of first degree m—er and his young chum, Raymond Schneider, was arrested as a material witness.

Dr. Hall and his companion were the victims of mistaken identity according to a confession alleged to have been made by young Schneider to the Somerset and Middlesex county authorities after an all night grilling.

Hayes was madly infatuated with a 15 year old girl, Pearl Bahmer, and was suspicious of the relationship existing between the girl and her step father.

On the night of Sept. 14 according to the statement attributed to Schneider, Hayes and himself were walking in the direction of Buccleuch Park when they saw the Bahmer girl in company of a man. Hayes flamed up into a jealous rage. Hayes and Schneider followed the couple but lost track of them. The two youths continued through the lonely path at one o'clock on the following morning (Sept 15) saw a man and a woman enter De Russey lane, a dark roadway leading to the old Phillips farm with its deserted house.

Schneider and Hayes saw the couple only for a moment in the pitch darkness then turned off towards the farm house. As they approached the building the youths saw a couple seated under a crab apple tree.

Hayes, according to the reported confession lost control of himself believing doubtless that his sweetheart was giving her affection to another. With an oath he drew a pistol and leaped forward. Hayes is said to have fired four shots. In the flash of gun powder Schneider saw the faces of the couple beneath the tree and realized with a shock that they were not Pearl Bahmer and the man Hayes sought. Schneider said he ran terror stricken from the scene but met Hayes ten minutes later. He did not know what Hayes had been doing in the meantime, Schneider said he had no revolver himself.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 9.—In a sensational 300-word statement which he dictated and signed in the county prosecutor's office today Raymond Schneider, 21, declared that he had been an eye witness to the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, and named a nineteen year old youth, a chum of his, as the slayer. Schneider asserted that the tragedy was due to a "case of mistaken identity." He said that the youth he named was "after" another man when he came upon Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills under the big crab apple tree on the Phillips farm just outside the city where the murder occurred.

Schneider told detectives Totten and David and State Trooper Dyckman, who did the questioning that he and the youth had followed Pearl Bahman, the 15 year old girl who was with him when he "discovered" the bodies on the Saturday following the tragedy, out in the direction of the farm around 11 o'clock on the night in question—Sept. 14. Nearing the farm house he said they came upon a couple under a tree which the youth immediately took to be Miss Bahman and "this other man."

"There they are; let me get at them," he quoted his companion as shouting. At the same time he said the youth leaped forward and opened fire. Three shots were fired.

As the last died away they rushed upon the bodies, Schneider said. He (Schneider) realized at once that a terrible mistake had been made. "D———, that's not them," he says he cried to his companion. "You have made a mistake."

The slayer agreed that such was the case and together they fled the scene. Schneider says he has no idea what his chum did with the murder pistol. "I didn't see him throw it away," he protested.

The accused youth is being detained as a material witness and announcement of an arrest is expected momentarily. Schneider is also being held.

CORONADO CASE NOT HEARD BY SUPREME COURT OF AMERICA

Petition for Rehearing of Famous Case Turned Down Monday.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The U. S. Supreme Court today declined a petition for a rehearing of the case of the Coronado Coal Company against the United Mine Workers of America. In a decision earlier in the year the court held the miners union responsible as such for damages to property and life growing out of strikes.

Refusal of the court to rehear this case released approximately $1,000,000 of the funds of the United Mine Workers which were held up pending action by the court.

The Coronado Coay Company is left free to bring its suit for damages.

Says She Was Servant to "Other Woman."

Mrs. Violet D. Smith Faris obtained a divorce in Chicago because she alleged, her husband confessed he loved another woman and that when she was forced to accompany her husband and the other woman to the theater she acted as servant and carried the other woman's wraps. She declared her husband told her he regretted he could not marry the other woman and have his first wife, Violet, live with them "because she was so motherly."

DEFENDANT ON STAND

Cleveland, O., Oct. 9.—George C. Loesch, 50, defendant in a $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Gertrude Smith, 24, was on the stand as the trial of the case was resumed today.

In letters introduced in evidence written to the prepossessing plaintiff before the break occurred which caused the suit, Loesch called the girl "the treasurer of my heart" in the "city of love" and said he wished to contract for her "entire output of kisses."

Suit was filed when Loesch thrice postponed the marriage.

SARASEN OPERATED ON AFTER CONTEST

New York, Oct. 9.—Gene Sarasen, Pittsburgh professional and recognized as worlds champion golfer is convelescent today in the St. Johns Riverside hospital, Yonkers, after an operation for appendicitis. The operation was performed just 24 hours after Sarasen had wrested the world's title from Walter Hagen of New York, the British open champion, in a special match.

During the final play Sarasen complained of a pain in his side but stuck gamely to his opponent and finally had the satisfaction of overcoming the two hole advantage, Hagen enjoyed after the first day's play in Pittsburgh. After the match, however the pain became more acute and Sarasen was rushed to the hospital where an operation was necessary. His condition today is reported good.

LEGION WINS BY NARROW MARGIN OF ONE FIELD GOAL

This is an ode to Paul "Tuffy" Fuller, whose educated toe propelled a neat drop-kick from the 35 yard line between the uprights in the third quarter, and thus enabled the American Legion football team to defeat the West Alexandria Ex-Hi eleven by the narrow margin of 3 to 0 at the Washington St. Ball Park, Sunday afternoon.

The goal from field was a life saver for the Legion athletes, for the local attack was never sufficiently strong to make a consistent drive for the goal. The heavy field, occasioned by the lack of turf and the recent rains, made toteing the leather any distance, next to impossible, while the aerial attack was overworked and uncertain.

The visitors presented a fast team, that was handicapped considerably by the damp gridiron forcing them to resort to the passing game. The West Alex eleven was also a well trained aggregation, and although outweighed by the heavy Xenia forward wall, presented a continuous stumbling block, for the Legion backfield. Big Phil Buck, who was persuaded into a uniform in the last few minutes, was the most consistent ground gainer in the plunging department but he showed the effects of lack of training.

Frank Leahey, though out of position in the backfield, played hard in all departments and his brother Will, played a good defensive game. Horen and Derrick at the ends broke up many plays and also helped on the receiving end of passes. In the line, the Borton brothers, Baker, Barnett, Pritchard and Milburn presented a formidable bulwark. Doyle, who went to quarterback when Myers was shifted to half, sparkled for the visitors, especially in shooting passes. Shank at full back, Hammell at end and J. Suggs and Hamm in the line, also played well. Seekamp, star half, was out of the game with a chipped shoulder blade.

"Tuffy" Fuller not only delivered the kick that won the game but he probably exhibited the best all around defensive game ever seen here. Fuller directed the strategy of the Xenia eleven, called the signals, did the punting, took the place of a coach in making substitutions, threw most of the passes, did all the arguing intercepted three passes and played a whale of a game at breaking up interference, following the opposition plays and spilling the man with the ball. He was all over the field, was Fuller, and contributed more than his drop-kick to winning the game.

Xenia made three first downs in the first half and four in the second for a total of seven, and West Alexandria made four in the first half and three in the second, also for a total of seven. Xenia used five passes in the first half, one being successful for a nine-yard gain. The visitors used nine passes in that period and completed one for 13 yards. In the second period, Xenia used ten passes completing two of them for a total of 30 yards and the visitors attempted 13 passes and made three of them good for 67 yards. In all, Xenia attempted 15 passes and completed three for 39 yards, while the visitors used 22 and completed four for 80 yards. Xenia intercepted seven of the visitors' passes, Fuller getting three and W. Leahey, Pritchard, F. Leahey and Horen each one. The visitors intercepted two of Xenia's attempts, Ozias and Myers each getting one. The summary:

XENIA—3		WEST ALEX—0
Horen	L	E.... Hammell
F. Borton	L	T.... Hamm
Pritchard	L	G.... J. Suggs
Milburn	C	C.... Graham

YEGGS BIND PORTER AND SON IN DAYTON STORE; MAKE ESCAPE

Dayton, Oct. 6.—Yeggs who forced an entrance to the store of W. F Oelman & Co,. Fourth and Main Streets, here early Sunday morning and prepared to blow the safe, were foiled when the head porter of the store and his son, who had been bound, escaped and notified police.

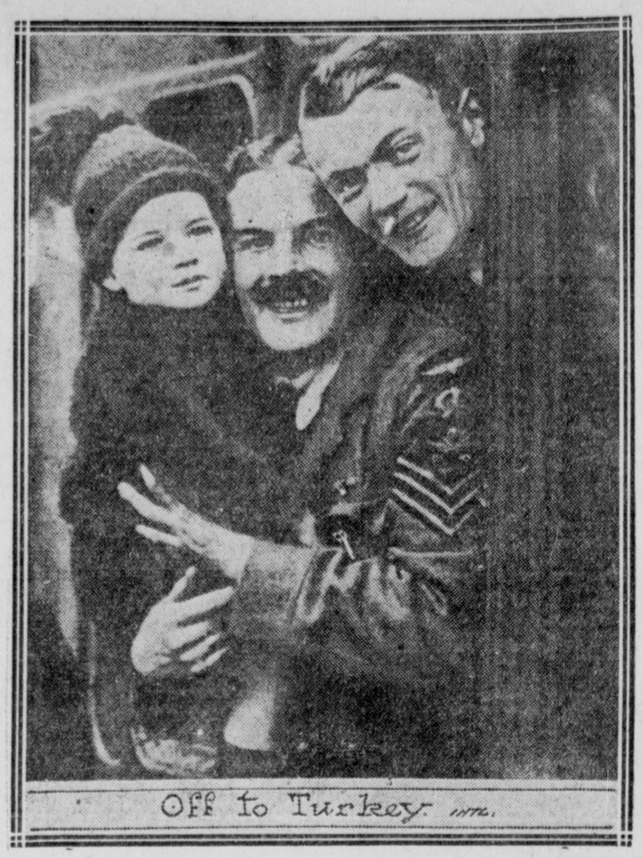

Harlan Miller, 16, managed to escape from the wire that bound him to a post and went to the aid of his father, John Miller, head porter releasing him with his hands still tied by cutting the ropes with a knife held in his mouth. With his teeth he pulled a pin that held a cellar door shut, and thus escaped to the outside, running to police headquarters.

Police found no trace of the yeggs but many evidences of their preparations for work. It is believed they were frightened away. The safe combination had been drilled, soap grooves laid of nitroglycerine, and the safe muffled with expensive cloths. A small bottle of explosives was also found.

The three yeggs were in the store when the porter and his son arrived Sunday morning to clean it up. The man and boy were compelled at the point of a revolver to subjection and were then bound to the posts.

HUGGINS' STAR SETS AND YANKEES WILL HAVE NEW MANAGER

New York, Oct. 9.—Post mortems on the world series, brought to a conclusion yesterday with the Giants winning the title without the loss of a game, may be summed up by stating this salient fact, to wit.

The Yankees can not hope to repeat next year in the American league race unless drastic changes are made in the personnel of the club. They must get a new team for the manager or a new manager for the team.

Since the latter may be accomplished with considerably less trouble and money than the former it is to be assumed that Miller Huggin will go and the majority of his self-centered morons will stay. Indeed, Til Huston, part owner of the club, has been gunning for Huggins these several years. It is probable that Til will score a bull's eye now that Huggins has demonstrated that he can only get a minimum of baseball out of those discontented prima donnas.

The Yankees need a two-fisted dominating individual who will kick them all the way from the bench into the field and back again. They would play good baseball for a man like that. Huggins is neither two fisted nor commanding.

Outsmarted though he was by McGraw the Yankee leader is only indirectly responsible for the fact that his club played the worst baseball of any world's series entry within recent year. The indirect responsibility lies in the fact that they played that way under his leadership. But he couldn't go out and run bases for them; neither could he make them cover more ground in the field nor hit better in the pinches.

He is being reviled today for ordering Bush to pass Young with two on and two out in the eighth inning yesterday. Yet that was sound baseball. Young is a better hitter than Kelly and the intentional pass filled the bases and made a force play possible at every one of them.

Kelly, however, singled over second and today Huggins is a bigger tramp than ever.

As a matter of fact, he is a pretty shrewd little baseball man who happens to be hooked up with a ball club that he cannot handle. Therefore he will go, in spite of the friendship of Jake Ruppert. This is almost inevitable.

INFANT SMOTHERS TO DEATH

Cincinnati, Oct. 9—Nine months old Mary Maloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Maloney, was smothered to death yesterday when her carriage collapsed and covered her with the blankets and covers. The parents were in another room eating dinner at the time, being absent only 15 minutes.

FIVE YOUTHS SHOT BY IRISH REBELS

Dublin, Oct. 9—Corpses of five youths, who had been shot to death, were found by the roadside near Dublin today. Officials declare that the "irregulars campaign is now resolving itself into a murder offensive."

There was heavy firing throughout the night in Dublin.

Operations by the free state troops over the week end were of a minor character. No battles were reported, but eight irregulars were captured in a skirmish in north Derry.

So far there have been no decisive results from the peace negotiations, Eamonn Devalera is reported to be carrying on with the free state government.

FIVE ARE INJURED IN SECOND CRASH OF TRACTION CARS

Accident Caused by Slippery Rails and Defective Brakes is Belief.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—Five persons were injured last night when two Cleveland, Painesville and Eastern electric cars met in a rear-end collision in Collinwood, in the second interurban crash here within the last 24 hours. All were badly cut and bruised. Other passengers hurled from their seats escaped uninjured or with slight bruises.

The accident, police said, was due to slippery rails and defective brakes. Forty passengers were reported to have been on the first and 30 on the second car. In a statement Sunday, D. A. Scanlan, general superintendent of the Northern Ohio Traction and Light Co., declared that the crash Saturday night between the two Akron, Bedford and Cleveland cars due to failure of the crews to obey a switch order. Mr. Scanlon's statement said 14 persons were injured while reports Saturday night were that probably 50 persons were hurt.

Twelve persons living along the right of way of the A. B. and C. line today petitioned the state public utilities commission for an investigation of the wreck. They claim cars have approached each other on the single track on more than one occasion but that heretofore the motormen were able to stop their cars before a crash occurred.

POSTPONE EUROPEAN DEBT, M'KENNA URGES.

A plea for definite postponement of payment of debts owed by European nations to the United States, was made by the Right Honorable Reginald McKenna, an outstanding figure in English finance, at the Bankers convention in New York.

Mr. McKenna, who is chairman of the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Ltd., after explaining that he spoke "as a banker expressing his personal views and having nothing to do with politics," said it will be impossible for any nation of Europe, except England, to pay the debt it now owes. Payment should be postponed, he declared, until the actual amount which each nation can ultimately pay has been established by international conferences.

He called attention to the report of the Bankers' Committee which met this summer in Paris and decided that a resumption of normal trade conditions between countries and stabilization of exchanges could not be accomplished without a definite settlement of the reparation and other international debts. He said:

"I approach the question solely from the economic point of view and my endeavor is to determine so far as I can the limit of the debtor's capacity to pay and the effect of payment upon the world's trade. It is not what the debtors may justly be called upon to pay, but what they are able to pay, which we as business men, anxious to discover the conditions upon which trade prosperity is founded, must consider with the most careful attention."

Mr. McKenna gave as his opinion that Germany might be able to pay as reparations in the immediate future about $1,000,000,000 derived from her foreign balances and the sale of foreign securities. Such a payment would only be possible if all other demands are postponed for a definite period, long enough to stabilize the mark. Future demands at the expiration of that period must be limited to the annual amount of Germany's exportable surplus at that time.

Mr. McKenna does not speak with an "English accent." There are no broad vowels in his speech. It is like that of a highly cultured man of any country. He talks without gesture. His intellectual power dominated his audience. What he said owed its emphasis and interest not only to the subject matter, but also to his knowledge and authority, which were obvious without being obtrusive. It was not necessary to know the speaker or history to sense that he was a commanding figure.

IT WAS NOT A "DO NOTHING" CONGRESS.

Those who make the charge of a "do nothing" Congress do not file any bill of particulars. They content themselves with tiresome repetition of a phrase which is as misleading as that other Democratic campaign phrase, "He kept us out of war."

Who, besides the Democratic speakers and papers, says we have had a "do nothing" Congress?

Not those who believe in public economy. The Budget law has been truly characterized as the greatest piece of constructive business legislation ever enacted. The Republican Congress is responsible for the Budget Bureau and is entitled to all credit for its existence. The Democrats were in complete control of Congress for six years and did not even attempt to pass a budget law. The Republican Congress elected in 1919 did pass a Budget law only to have it vetoed by the Democratic President. The long and short of it is, the Democratic party would not and did not give the nation a budget. The Republican party did.

This Congress not only reduced the appropriations for the coming year a third of a billion dollars, but it reduced the taxes to be collected by nearly a billion dollars. It did not shift taxes. It lifted them. Is it "nothing" to clip $2,000,000,000 from the national expenditures and to reduce the public tax burden by a billion? No other nation in the world has done it.

This Republican Congress found the country operating under a free trade law. Every other nation of consequence in the world had enacted at least one protective tariff law since the war. America was the last to look after her home markets, to offer protection to her home industry, her home labor and her home capital. Until such a law was a certainty all industry was afraid to go ahead, all business uncertain as to the future, all labor in fear of prolonged idleness. In keeping with the traditions and the policies of the Republican party, this Congress enacted the Fordney-McCumber Protective Tariff act.

This Congress has not enacted any sectional legislation, or any legislation which profited one class of people to the injury of any other. It has torn nothing down, destroyed no values, threatened no business, discouraged no investment.

It came into power pledged by party platform and word to a greater program of vital legislation than any Congress in history. It has translated those pledges into laws.

WOMAN BANK OFFICER A TERROR ON OVERDRAFTS.

Among the delegates to the convention of the American Bankers' Association at New York, was Mrs. Lulu H. Cusenbary, vice president of the Bank of Hydro. Her husband, J. D. Cusenbary, is the bank's president, but he always lets his wife attend these big gatherings. They go together, however, to the group meetings held in their own State, Mrs. Cusenbary explained.

Hydro, which is a three-bank town sixty-nine miles west of Oklahoma City, is quite used to Mrs. Cusenbary's financial rise, for she has been in the banking business with her husband for twenty years and started as assistant cashier. There is only one other woman bank vice president attending the convention, Mrs. C. E. Hearan, of the Farmers' National Bank, Clay, Ky.

"When Jim goes away I take entire charge," said Mrs. Cusenbary, who is round faced, plump and has bright eyes. "The longest he was ever away was seventy-one days and he always tells me to call him up on the telephone if anything goes wrong, but nothing ever has. As soon as he goes on a vacation or business trip I begin to get everything in the bank caught up to date. They take advantage of my husband sometimes. He's a little bit easy, perhaps. He says I'm a terror on overdrafts."

BEAUTY CHATS by EDNA KENT FORBES

PERFUMES AND TOILET WATER

The love of perfume is born in every woman, handed down to her from innumerable generations of female ancestors who had discovered the curious effect that certain odors have upon the nerves and the emotions. I wonder who was the first woman to find out that certain perfumes made her more attractive in the eyes of men? Certainly in ancient times the wealthier and more beautiful the woman the heavier the odor she carried about with her. She literally walked around in a perfumed cloud.

Really good perfumes cost enormous amounts today, and cheap perfumes, of course, are never worth the buying. Perfumes unfortunately are hard to make at home, since the proper blending of the various oils, spices and tinctures is a complicated process. However here are one or two simple formulas which you might try.

PURE EXTRACT OF PINK

Oil of pink 1 ounce
Rectified spirit 1 pint

Mix and agitate these until they are thoroughly blended.

Here is a good imitation of

EXTRACT OF VIOLETS

Bruised cinnamon 1 1-2 ounces
Cloves 3-4 ounce
Rectified spirit 1 pint

Let this stand in a warm dark cupboard for a week, shaking it up frequently, decant into a fresh bottle.

These are the two simplest formulas I know. A fragrant jar of dried flower petals can be made by any woman who has a garden. Such a jar gives delicate perfume to a room all the winter long. A layer of salt and cinnamon should be sprinkled over every layer of petals.

A. P.—Any stimulating treatment such as dashing cold water over the chest followed up by brisk rubbing will build up the muscular tissue and make the skin firm; therefore, this would either reduce or enlarge as the case required. If there was flabbiness of the muscles or fatty accumulations the fat would be absorbed and the muscles made firm, while the skin would also be benefited. So you see that both of your theories are correct.

M. F.—A complete list for dieting would consume too much space for publication but will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope. In the meanime, substitute whole wheat bread for that made from all white flour and eat less starchy food and more green vegetables and fruit.

SALES OF PUREBRED LIVESTOCK ARE POPULAR

Many of the annual fall sales of purebred livestock which have proved popular and profitable for breeders in years past are coming this month, according to County Agent Prince. "These sales deserve the support of the farming community, for they represent the result of a year's effort on the part of the breeders to produce better animals than ever before," said Mr. Prince.

"The sales which are to be held represent the best of the fall stock of pigs which were produced in 1921 which were produced on these farms. We know for a certainty that the breeders who are holding sales and the tops of the spring litters, which were produced on these sales would much rather keep many of the individuals, they are selling for their own herds."

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

COALS OF FIRE.

My neighbor earned my deepest hate, he slew my Maltese cats; he slugged them with some chunks of slate, and stove in all their slats. I traced the frightful crime to him, as Sherlock might have done, and vowed I'd rend him limb from limb before my race was run. But in my heart emotions dread don't flourish much or thrive; "To punch my neighbor's dome," I said, "won't make my cats alive. Some day, no doubt, he'll realize how sinful was his deed; with briny streaming from his eyes, for pardon he will plead." That night my neighbor's cow lay ill, upon her couch of hay, and by her side, with dope and pill, I sat till break of day. I bent above that ailing cow a proud though childlike form, and gently fanned her fevered brow, and gave her mashes warm. "You've saved her life," my neighbor cried, "you've played a noble game; ah, humble is my wicked pride, and I am sunk in shame. If I but had a pair of gats, I'm aim them at my dome; 'twas I who slew the pale blue cats that frolicked round your home." "Now let the stricken cats sleep on," I said, "let dead things be; come forth and sit upon my lawn, and eat a pie with me."

Today's Talk by George Matthew Adams

"The Grouch House."

I have a friend in Cleveland, an artist whose lovely home rests just at the top of a beautiful hillside.

Being an artist—and having a wife who in her own right is also artistic—you would expect a home and estate full of delightful innovations and surprises. And that is exactly what you will find if you are as fortunate as I in having been a guest of this pair.

There are thick woods, open spaces, flower beds, seats hidden from beaten paths, statues and winding steps that lead to a small out-of-the-way house at the bottom of the hill which its builder and owner has termed "The Grouch House."

This house has a living room with an artistic fireplace made of tiling of the artist's own design a kitchen, a sleeping room for the occasional guest and an outside, stone-terraced place from which to watch the birds and squirrels.

Many a famous personage has been entertained in this little hidden house. And inscriptions are written across the walls on all sides. The furniture is almost exclusively genuine old early American. Rockers such as "Auntie" used as she sat by the kitchen fire—and, hush! probably smoked her pipe. No matter in what direction you look, there is something of interest, for both your eyes and your soul.

But now I come to the important point—why is this "The Grouch House?"

Well, in the first place, no matter what comes in this life—fame, wealth, distinction—there aways keeps burning within us the desire for fundamentals, for crude "homey" things, for a romp where honest, natural instincts breed.

And so "The Grouch House" becomes a refuge for tired nerves, a retreat from the cares and conventionalities of a world that is only part real, a place where the soul can expand, where one is able to correct perspectives—and then go back to his friends, his home, and his work, renewed and fit for any call.

Stanley B. Mathewson, factory manager with the Edwood-Myers Company of Springfield, has accepted the directorship of the Personnel Department at Antioch College succeeding H. L. Gardner who has been made assistant to the general manager of the Shelton Looms, at Shelton, Conn. Mr. Mathewson has had training and experience which fit him admirably to carry on the work of the department at the College, which has charge of the placing of over four hundred students in cooperative positions. Mr. Mathewson is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology in the class of 1904 and completed a special electrical course at the Lowell, Massachusetts Textile School in 1906.

Following several years service with the Bell Telephone Company as manager of their Atlanta district and as chairman of the selection and training committee of Division No. 1 he was appointed Personnel Supervisor of the United States Army camps under the committee on classification of Personnel in 1918. Mr. Mathewson also acted as Field Director of Trade tests in the U. S Army Camps during the war. He was a member of the Scott Company Consultants in Industrial Personnel until 1921, when he became factory manager of the Elwood and Myers Company.

As Associate Director of its Personnel Department the College has secured the services of Mrs. Jean Hoskins, who has done much work along the line of industrial relations. For two years she was with the Oakland Mazda Lamp Works of the General Electric Company, in Oakland, Cal., followed by two years service with the Eastern Manufacturing Company, at Banger, Maine, and the Clinton Wire Cloth Company at Clinton, Mass. During the war, Mrs. Hoskins served as Supervisor of Employment Management for the Women's Branch of the U. S. Ordinance Department throughout the eastern States. Mrs. Hoskins leaves a successful consulting practice in Industrial Relations in New York to take up her work with the College.

The directorship of the Department of Industrial Health at Antioch College, rendered vacant by the resignation of Dr. George H. Bigelow, who is now Director of the Clinic at Cornell Medical School in New York City, has been filled by the appointment of Dr. George P. Paul. Dr. Paul is a graduate of New York University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College and also spent some time in graduate study in Europe. In 1915 he received from Harvard the degree of C. P. H. in their School of Public Health. In April 1916 he joined the Field Staff of the International Health Board of the Rockefeller Foundation. Dr. Paul's work with the Board was largely concerned with disease control and public health administration in the British West Indies, South Sea Islands, Australia India and Central America, as well as considerable work in the United States. Dr. Paul is the author of "Nursing in the Acute Infectious Fevers," and "Materia Medica and Therapeutics for Nurses."

MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT TO FEATURE CONVENTION

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—A message from President Harding and an address by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will feature the initial session here tonight of the twenty-fifth annual convention of the American Mining Congress.

Concurrently with the sessions of the congress, a conference on nine taxations will be held.

Two thousand five hundred mine operators and owners are expected to attend.

JAMES MONROE MANSION TO BE PRESERVED

Where President Monroe died.

The little stone house at Lafayette and Prince Streets, New York City, in which President James Monroe spent his last days has been purchased by anonymous donors and will be restored and preserved as a museum. For years it has been used as a junkshop and was going to ruin. This is a view of the room in which the author of the Monroe Doctrine passed away.

MANHOLE COVER PROVES VICIOUS

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—An automobile driven by James Gadd of Hamilton struck a manhole cover in Covington yesterday, displacing it, then turned a series of somersaults in the course of which the driver dropped into the street and was bruised slightly. The cast iron cover of the troublesome manhole rolled toward Gadd who leaped to his feet and ran only to be pursued by the relentless disc for more than half a block. He finally outdistanced his odd nemesis which crashed into a fence and stopped.

FINED IN POLICE COURT

Charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, Elmer Weaver was fined $50 and costs by Police Judge E. D. Smith. Adam Snyder was fined $10 and costs, for drunk. Snyder and Weaver gave their home as Dayton. They were arrested Saturday night by Police Lieutenant Mangan and Patrolman Matthews.

WOMAN'S CREDITORS GIVE TESTIMONY

Pomeroy, O., Oct. 9.—Some of the heaviest creditors of Mrs. Susan Kraus, 63, who is held in the county jail on charges of embezzlement and is said to have secured more than $400,000 from Pomeroy residents on promises of returns rivalling those offered by Ponzi, the Boston man, are among the ninety additional witnesses summoned to appear before the Meigs County Jury today, tomorrow and Wednesday. Prosecutor L. Crary Davis said today that he expected that more than 300 witnesses would be examined before the Grand Jury completed its probe of the tangled affairs this week.

M. A. Kraus, son of the woman, who faces charges of forgery and embezzlement was set free to await Grand Jury action on the ebbezzlement charge when Phillip Mayer, a prominent grocer, signed his bond for $1,500.

GIANTS AGAIN ARE WORLD'S CHAMPIONS; WIN FOURTH GAME

New York, Oct. 9.—The New York Giants are once more champions of the world. They reached that pinnacle of success for the second consecutive year in a furious uphill rush yesterday afternoon that flung the Yankees to defeat 5 to 3 and crushed a disgusted pitcher, Bullet Joe Bush.

It was the second successive time that the Yanks have bucked the Giants in a world series and failed. This year they went down ingloriously, without the solace of having captured even one of the five games that comprised the battle for the title. The best the Yankees could do was to tie the second game of the series. The Giants, managed by John McGraw, won the other four.

In all the annals of the game only two clubs ever triumphed in a world series in such a decisive fashion. In 1907 the Chicago Nationals won four straight victories over the Detroit Americans after fighting a twelve inning first game tie at 3-3 in runs.

Seven years later the Boston Braves surprised the fans of the entire nation by wrecking Connie Mack's superb Athletics four games in a row.

The final downfall of the Yanks was that of a house momentarily divided. Miller Huggins, the head of the household which was then enjoying a 3 to 2 lead, over the Giants ,differed with his pitcher, Joe Bush in his strategic program for blocking the onslaught of the champions in the eighth inning. Bush became angry and before he could calm himself, Long George Kelly had smacked one of his curves so hard and so far that one Giant raced across the plate with the run that tied the Yankees and another Giant trotted in with the score that beat them.

CLUB OWNERS LOSE MONEY ON SERIES

New York, Oct. 8.—Owners of the contending world's series teams this year lost money on the affair for the first time since it was inaugurated 19 years ago. Although the owners of the Giants and Yankees took in $605,475 for the five games they have pledged themselves to donate $120,554, the receipts of the tie game of last Thursday to charity

Of the $484,921 remaining the players will receive $247,309 and after the commission has taken its cut the clubs will get only $82,436.57. This will hardly meet expenses.

The players did not fare so badly however. Their share after deducting the amounts that go to second and third place clubs is $185,482.28. The Giants get 60 per cent of this or $111,289.25, giving each player $4,121.83. The Yankees share is $74,192.73, each player receiving $2,967.71.

Business The Fidelity Service & Adjustment Co., of Dayton, Ohio, a corporation organized to render a service to the automobile tire user and tire dealer. On January 1, 1922, practically every automobile tire manufacturer released their mileage guarantee on tires, which at the best was a makeshift and the cause of endless friction between the car owner and dealer, because the man who had a just complaint was generally the one who was not taken care of.

The Policy Of the Fidelity Service & Adjustment Co. is a clean-cut one, without any strings. With a Fidelity Policy a man is receiving a full year's protection against everything that might happen to a tire. The Fideltiy Companpy is the only company offering this service and the idea, together with the advertising and the name, is copyrighted and registered. In the United tates there are 80,000 exclusive tire dealers, each an ultimate user of Fidelity Service. These dealers distribute 200,000 tires every day, every buyer of which is a prospect. How many propositions have you heard of that presents such a field?

TEACHERS DISCUSS WORK FOR NEXT 5 WEEKS AT MEETING

The program of specific instruction which will be taken up by Xenia City and Greene County teachers during the next five weeks, dating from October 7, to November 18, was discussed at the general meeting of the teachers held at the McKinley School Auditorium, Saturday. The work to be taken up over the county, and which met with discussion Saturday includes the program of remedial instruction, following the Monroe Silent Reading test which has been in vogue over the entire county recently.

The teachers met for the session at nine-thirty o'clock Saturday morning, divided into sections, those teachers being visited by Professor Devoe, being isolated from the other groups, visited by Professor D. H. Barnes, Professor Lynn, and County Superintendent of Schools, H. C. Aultman, who met in separate sections.

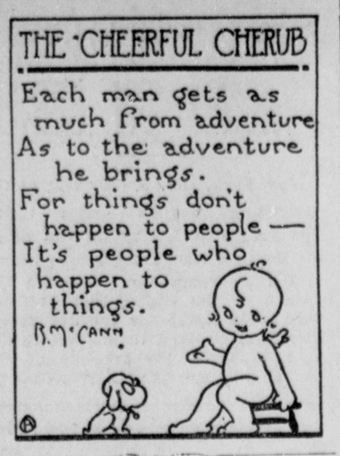

The program of the day opened with the discussion of the ethical program to be introduced in the county and the specific work in the grades from one to twelve. A discussion on reading by Miss Edwina Morrow of Cincinnati, followed, which was well received by the local teachers. One point brought out by Miss Morrow, was that the teachers should not judge their success by the poorest but by the best showing, and that the highest pupils should be chosen as a standard.

The afternoon session opened with a solo by Larsh Ferguson, followed by a readinng and composition demonstration by Miss Mabel Foster, of the second grade, and Miss Ella Ambuhl of the sixth grade course.

Superintendent of Xenia City School, C. A. Waltz, who was scheduled to have charge of a general discussion and address, was unable to appear on the program, due to another appointment.

The workers of the State Teachers' Retirement System was fully explained by W. A. Kerschner, of Columbus, who is connected with the department. Mr. Kreshner explained to the teachers the fact that any amount of money put into the system may be drawn out at any time, with four per cent compound interest in addition. The system is almost entirely supported in the state by the teachers, according to Mr. Kershner, who stated that the system would be less expensive to the teachers than last year.

The next general meeting of the Xenia City and Greene County Teachers, according to County Superintendent Aultman, will be held November 18, at which time the program will follow the theme of the teaching of English in the schools.

SOCIETY

The W. R. C. Thimble Club will be entertained by Miss Lorena Mansfield at the G. A. R. Hall, Tuesday, Oct. 10, at two o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sellers of south of this city and their son in law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Townsley, of Dayton, will spend Sunday in Sabina, as the guest of Mr. Sellars' niece, Mrs. Maggie Holmes.

Mrs. G. A. Kratz, of Bensonville, Illinois, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Whitmer Alexander and family of Middleown, stopped for a short visit with her aunt, Mrs. Mary Teach of East Third Street, Sunday. Mrs. Kratz was forferly Miss Miami Teach and is well known in this vicinity. This is her first visit in Xenia in ten years.

Mrs. Cecil A. Dellinger, 30, wife of Lawrence Dellinger, died Friday morning at her residence, 11 Niagara Avenue, Dayton. Funeral services were conducted Monday morning at ten o'clock, at the late residence. Burial was made at Fairfield.

Mr. Dave A. Fifer has returned from a visit with his sister Mrs. Amanda F. Dean, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

XENIA W. C. T. U. HOLDS MEETING

The members of Xenia W. C. T. U. were entertained at the home of Mrs. H. H. Hawkins of South Detroit Street, Saturday, sixteen members being received for the meeting.

The Christian Citizenship and Parliamentary Departments were represented on the program of the afternoon, which included a report of the County Executive meeting, by Miss Jennie Thomas.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Hawkins assisted by Miss Corrine Welch.

COURT FREES UNKISSED BRIDE

Mrs. Lyle Butterworth, INN.

Nellie Inns became Mrs. Lyle Butterworth when Butterworth pointed a pistol at her and drove her to the home of a minister, who performed the ceremony. She insisted on going home after the wedding, telling her husband she would join him the next day. She did not do so but instead sued for a divorce, which has just been granted her.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

One of the best of the annual lecture courses sponsored by the students of Jamestown High School, is being planned for according to school officials.

The first number of the series of lectures will open October 26, when the Hipple Concert Company will appear. The program will include five numbers during the year, each number being a brand of high class entertainment. The ticket selling for the concerts is in charge of the pupils of the school.

W. H. Copsey, former music instrucor in the Caesarcreek township schools has taken a position as head of the music department of the Jametown High School, beginning his duties with the opening of the fall term.

Pupils of the Jamestown High School completed their organization of the various departments of school activities last week. The first department to be organized was that of the Editorial Staff of the Jamestown High School paper, John Rockhold being elected as editor-in-chief, while Elven Earley was selected assistant editor; Lilly Brock, literary reporter; Elven Earley, athletic reporter, Willard Thuma, music reporter; Dale Weimer, humor, and Jerry Tolan, miscellaneous.

The members of the editorial staff will have charge of the publication of school items of interest in the Jamestown paper, which devotes a special department to the school.

Other organizations effected was that of a Student Senate, Athletic organization; including boys' and girls basket ball teams; a High School orchestra, librarian and two literary societies.

The base ball team of Jamestown High School has just completed a successful season, winning four games in succession. The team's opponents during the season were Jeffersonville, two games; Bowersville, two games and Cedarville, two games.

KILLED BY FALL

Cincinnati, Oct. 9—W. H. Serdon, 74, was killed last night when he fell down a flight of stairs he was ascending to his third floor room and received a fractured skull and a broken right arm. The coroner has been unable to locate the man's relatives.

Big Flakes
with that exquisite flavor

Note how Mother's Oats excel.

Note the big flakes and the luscious flavor.

That's because these oats are flaked from just the richest, plumpest grains. All the little oats which Nature neglects are excluded.

We get but one pound of Mother's Oats from three pounds of the choicest oats that grow.

Consider what oats mean to you and yours.

This is supreme food. Everybody needs it, as you know.

It is very economical—only one-half cent per dish. The same nutrition, measured by calories, in meat or fish foods costs nine or ten times as much.

Then why not serve this premier food in its most delightful form?

JAMESTOWN HIGH DEFEATS CEDARVILLE

Jamestown High School baseball team defeated Cedarville on the latter's diamond Friday afternoon by the score of 8 to 2, in a game called in the eighth inning on acount of darkness.

Elden Earley, Jamestown's star hurler pitched superb ball, allowing but three hits, one being of the scratch variety past first base, and not donating a single pass. Only 29 men faced hi mand he struck out 17 of them. The diminutive moundsman also helped win his own game, but getting a triple, a single and a walk scoring three runs in four times up.

Jamestown outplayed Cedarville in all departments of the game, outhitting them 9 to 3. By reason of the victory Jamestown now claims the high school baseball championship of Greene County. They are already basketball champions. Next Friday Jamestown will play West Liberty.

You Can Get Back Your Grip On Health

Hope for the millions of unfortunate men and women who are victims of stomach trouble is sounded by Mrs. Madge Carter, highly respected resident of Ira, Ohio. Mrs. Carter was a victim of stomach trouble in its worst form but was completely restored to health by taking Tanlac She says:

"For years I suffered terribly from indigestion and nervousness, and was in such miserable health that I never expected to be well again. Tanlac has completely overcome these ailments, and now I'm in splendid health and am several pounds heavier in weight."

Undigested food ferments in the stomach and soon the entire system is filled with poisons. Tanlac was designed to restore the stomach to a healthy condition and build up the whole body. Millions everywhere have acclaimed its wonderful power. Get a bottle today.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists..

Notice to Renters
of Houses or Flats that are Hard to Heat

Own Your Own Furnace—

—take it along when you move! Looks like a phonograph. Heats 3 to 6 connecting rooms.

Estate Heatrola is the new idea in modern warm-air heating. A practical and efficient warm air furnace, resembling a cabinet phonograph.

Placed in one of the living rooms, it heats 3 to 6 connecting rooms, and heats them better than the ordinary stove heats one. Not a stove, but a furnace that circulates great volumes of warm, moist air throughout the house. Burns any kind of coal satisfactorily.

Grained Mahogany Enamel

The Heatrola is finished in rich, grained mahogany—a vitreous enamel, hard and smooth as glass, and practically everlasting. You can rub and dust it with a cloth, just as you do your furniture.

Come see the Heatrola. Let us explain its many unique features in detail. You have always wanted furnace heat. Now you can have it at small expense. And the Heatrola is as easy as a stove to install.

ADDRESSES EAGLES AT MEETING HELD IN XENIA

"The Fraternal Order of Eagles stands forth among the first in the land as a patriotic, community and individual serving social welfare fraternity and institution," J. S. Parry of Kansas City, Mo., Grand Secretary of the Eagles, told members of Xenia Aerie in an address here Friday night. Mr. Parry's address to more than 100 members was based on the Order of Eagles itself, telling the story of its inception from a gathering of about a dozen men in Seattle, Washington, 25 years ago, and its rapid growth and important achievements since that time, including especially its patriotic and charitable work.

Following the address, refreshments were served by members of the Aerie, and Mr. Parry was later taken to Springfield where he addressed a meeting of Springfield Eagles, and was honor guest at a boxing show. He came here from Tenton, N. J.

TO START C. OF C. MEETINGS

Plans for the first meeting and dinner of the winter season will be made at the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce to be held Monday evening. The meeting was postponed from last Friday. An effort is being made to have Congressman S. D. Fess address the first meeting, but if he can not come here at that time, another speaker will be obtained.

LOCAL DELEGATE LEAVES FOR R. C. MEET

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, delegate from the Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross to the Red Cross Convention in Washington D. C., left for Washington Sunday night.

He will attend the sessions at the National Headquarters Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and may visit his brother, Robert Tilford in Harrisburg, Pa., before returning. He expects to arrive in Xenia Saturday. One of the features of the convention he will attend will be a reception Tuesday, for the visiting delegates. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the Vice President, the Ladies of the Cabinet, Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett, wife of the Speaker of the House, and wives of Senators, will receive the guests.

CONTINUE TRIAL DATE OF REV. CULP

The Rev. W. W. Culp, former pastor of the Spring Valley M. E. Church, will not stand trial Tuesday in the court of Probate Judge J. Carl Marshall on a charge of non-support.

On plea of the eloping pastor's attorney, Charles W. Folkerth, of Dayton, Culp has been allowed a continuance of the trial from Tuesday, until October 24, when he is scheduled to appear.

Culp entered a not guilty plea to the affidavit charging non-support when arraigned several weeks ago, and his trial set for October 10. He was later released under bond and went to his former home at Napanee, Ind., where he is employed in a cabinet factory. He would have appeared Tuesday morning if the trial date had not been changed.

HIGH GRIDDERS RESUME PRACTICE

Coach Earl Burgner's crack Central High football team is resuming practice this week unhampered by injuries or cripples.

The eleven came out of the unusually hard affray with Troy last Friday without a casualty, which means that the squad will be in tiptop shape for the combat with Sidney here Friday afternoon which will be one of the toughest battles on this year's grid program.

Although none were injured, "Tad" Randall, fleet-footed half, was "hurt" considerably by his ejection from the pastiming in the second-half of the Troy tangle. The "deerfoot" was not all to blame for the incident. He was unfortunate enough to get his lip in front of the fist of an enraged Trojan athlete, and when he attempted to retaliate with an uppercut on the beak, the attention of the referee was focused upon him, resulting in a severe penalty for Xenia.

Referee Reese, usually square in his arbitrating, said he did not see the Troy lad strike, but Coach Johnson of the Miami County team did. He voluntarily promised local athletic authorities that the athlete would pay the penalty for his unsportsmanlike conduct when the squad returned to Troy.

In taking on Sidney Friday, the blue and white gridders are grabbing off a handful, according to the dope. The Shelby outfit has a trick colored backfield man who is rated as a wizard and locals are assured they will have to be active to take care of him. Coach Burgner is building up a defense against the invaders, which will be the first meeting of these two teams.

LITTLE WORLD'S SERIES STILL GOING

Baltimore, Oct. 9—With all sky leaks stopped and the sun shining again both Orioles and Saints were preparing to depart from Baltimore tonight and finish the little world's series in St. Paul. The count stood 2 to 1 in favor of Baltimore as the teams took teh field today for the fourth game of the series here. The Orioles are favorites to win.

COMMITTEE WILL REPORT ON RADIO FOR FARM BUREAU

With the appointment of A. E. Swaby of Miami Township, on the committee in charge of the investigation of the feasibility of installing a radio outfit in the Greene County Farm Bureau offices, by the Farm Bureau Executive Committee Saturday, the reorganization of the committee was effected. The committee is now composed of W. B. Bryson, Herman W. Eavey, County Agent Ford S. Prince, and Mr. Swaby.

Mr. Swaby has a radio outfit in his home, and with his experience will cooperate with the other members of the committee in deciding first the advisability of installing the radio in the Farm Bureau office, and if this move is decided upon, will give information and assistance in putting the outfit in. The radio, if installed in the office, will be used to receive market reports.

The members of the executive committee at the meeting Saturday, voted to authorize W. B. Bryson, chairman of the Greene County Farm Bureau, to cooperate with the Fayette County Farm Bureau officials, in their pageant on "Wallace Day" October 18.

Frank Wardlow, of Sugarcreek township, trustee of the Miami Valley Co-operative Milk Producers' Association, reported on the progress of that organization on the sale of fluid milk at the excutive meeting. Mr. Wardlow stated that at the present time there are twenty cream stations in operation in this district, and there is a prospect of that many more being established by the first of the year. Up to the present time the sale of fluid milk has not been carried out by the organization.

HOT LUNCH FOR CHILDREN SEEMS TO BE ASSURED NOW

Through the interest of the rural mothers of the county, and the co-operation of the school instructors and members of the County Board of Education, the hot school lunch throughout the county, during the winter months, seems to be assured, according to Farm Bureau leaders.

In their conference with the teachers and Superintendent of County Schools, H. C. Aultman, the mothers of Miami Township found that the Board not only approved of the plan, but had alloted each school fifty dollars for the installing of domestic science and manual training. Twenty of the fifty was used by the mothers in buying their equipment and staple supplies for the domestic science department.

"We bought the best we could get," said Mrs. Bertha C. Hardman of Miami Township, in speaking of the project, "and had the co-operation of the storekeeper who let us have the things at cost. A stove and fireless cooker were given, but we had the rest to buy including the oven."

The women of the Farm Bureau have taken over the project in Miami Township, and it is hoped by officials of the Farm Bureau, according to County Agent Prince, that all the townships will do likewise and install the hot lunches in the schools.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

HAVE YOU TRIED STENCILLING YOUR VALANCES?

I have known women to go out to a store and buy expensive cretonne material for window valances—when they could not afford to make such a purchase. And when I encounter such a case, I always say to myself: "Why didn't she buy unbleached muslin, instead, and stencil it? It would have been just as effective as overdrapes."

But the average housekeeper does not take as great an interest in the arts and crafts as she should. I don't believe that one woman in ten (perhaps even a smaller percentage) knows how to stencil!

The first step in stencilling is to make your stencil from stiff cardboard or 'Bristol Board." Trace a good border from wall paper or from cretonne, then take carbon paper such as stenographers use on the typewriter, to make copies of letters, and lay this black carbon paper face down on the bristol board; lay on top of the carbon paper the piece of tissue paper on which you traced the design, and go over the whole design with a very sharp pencil (hard lead) pressing down firmly as you draw. This leaves the design on the bristol board, and you can then take a pair of shears and cut out sections of the cardboard (where the design indicates.) This finishes the stencil.

The next step is to decide whether you wish to use dyes or artists' tube oil paint. While dyes are nicer to work with than paints, they are not as permanent in color as oil paint. The paint will not fade after constant washings.

Yet, in spite of this fact, dyes are most popular for stencilling. Follow the directions which come on the packages of dye. To set the color, add five or six drops of diluted carbonic acid (this is a deadly poison, so use it carefully.) Some women use this method of making the dye permaneint; mix the white of one egg with two teaspoons of water and add a little of this to the dye. Still another way of obtaining a fast color is to buy five cents' worth of dextrine or gum from the drug store and use one teaspoon of this to one cupful of the dye. No rigid rules can be given in connection with using dyes for stencilling, as the strength of color you wish to obtain, the materials upon which you do the stencilling, etcetera, make it possible. The best way is to experiment with a small portion, or piece, of the goods, even going so far as to stencil it, iron it, and wash it several times, before going ahead on the large piece of goods.

The most important steps of all, in stencilling, is this: When the material is stencilled and dry, it must be ironed on the back with a very hot iron with a wet cloth between iron and stencilled goods. The hot steam sets the color. Do not use merely a warm iron; use a hot one.

To wash a stencilled curtain; soak it in clear, salt water thoroughly (use a handful of salt to a bucket of water) then wash in mild soap suds, rinse, dry, sprinkle and iron.

OSBORN INDIAN FOOTBALL TEAM DEFEATED SUNDAY

The Osborn Indian football team was defeated for the first time this season Sunday, when the Tippecanoe City Merchants handed the Greene County eleven the short end of an 18 to 0 score.

The first half was scoreless, the teams battling each other on even terms. A combination of end runs and forward passes enabled Tipp City to score in the third quarter and the visitors added two more touchdowns by the same methods in the final period. The Osborn backfield was crippled for the game.

A Stenographer's Romance

HAPPINESS PLUS

Chapter 91

It was just six months after Nellie's engagement was broken that Donald Horne told her of his love, asked her to marry him.

"But, Donald, I never thought—"

"I know you didn't, darling, but think now. I have loved you, dear, ever since you came here. I think it was love at first sight. I hardly wanted to live when I knew you had promised yourself to another. Can you love me, dear? Will you be my wife?"

Suddenly Nellie knew. She loved Donald Horne—loved him as she never had loved George Fallon, because she loved without questioning.

"I can take care of you, dear. Give you a simple, little home. Will you let me?"

Nellie was in Donald's arms, and before he released her he had her promise to marry him. Then he begged so hard she make it soon that she let him have his way.

Hand in hand, like two little children, they sought Mrs. Roberts.

"I am very glad and feel sure you will be happy." she said kissing them both. She approved of an early marriage.

"Donald has waited long enough," she said to the blushing Nellie.

Nellie could scarcely understand the unquestioning joy which possessed her, but accepted it as proof that it was right she should give herself to Donald, although she said:

"People will think me fickle, Mrs. Robers. And what will Miss Pitt say?" she added gleefully.

"It's wonderful to feel so happy and so sure," Nellie said after Donald left them. "Donald has been dear, I thing I should have been shocked perhaps not known I loved him if he had asked me—sooner. I am going to write Mr. George a note and tell him. Someway I have an idea he will be glad to know I am going to be so happy."

"I think he will, Nellie. He is a good, fair minded man. I am sure he will think none the less of you because you are going to marry Donald. You are doing well too, dear. Donald is a bright ambitious fellow. I predict that someday he will have a paper of his own, be he editor instead of an assistant.

"I'd marry him if he was a newsboy!" Nellie replied. "I never thought once whether he had anything or not He's just Donald."

"I'm sure you will be happy."

Nellie wrote her little note to George Fallon, telling him she was going to marry the young newspaper man she had told him of so long ago. It was rather a stiff formal little note but as he read Mr. Fallon smiled understandingly. Then he leaned back in his chair and laughed aloud. Seizing his pen he wrote:

"Dear Nellie: Your note just received and no one can wish you more happiness, or wish it more honestly than I do. In return for your confidence I am going to give mine. Dorothy and I will be married next month. I know we have your best wishes. Always regard me as your friend, George Fallon."

Nellie rushed to Mrs. Roberts with his note.

"I always knew he'd marry Dorothy!" she exclaimed. "I'm so glad! I thought he might think me dreadful to become engaged so soon. And I can' help being glad I wrote him—told him first. I guess it isn't nice in me but I can't help it. And I'm glad he's going to be happy! He never would have been with me—not for long. Oh, isn't it fine everything turned out so wonderfully for us both?"

"Indeed it is, dear. And I can appreciate just how you feel about it. I think Donald will be glad to see that note."

"I shall show it to him, of course. Now I haven't a worry or regret in the world. God has been awfully good to me—given me such friends. And now Donald! He wants to be married right away."

"I see no reason to keep him waiting, dear. A month perhaps, but remember he has loved you a long time."

"He saved my life too. I guess I belong to him anyway," Nellie replied as she skipped from the room.

FARMERS PREPARE CORN GROUND FOR WHEAT SOWING

Although impeded by dry weather, farmers over the country are preparing their own corn ground for wheat sowing, the work of sowing going on for the past week.

The acreage this year will probably not be up to normal, due to the lack of available acreage caused by so much corn not being cut and the fact that little plowing for wheat was done due to the dry weather.

An interesting example of a smart cloth frock for the Fall is shown in the model sketched at the Worth opening in Paris. It was made of dark blue twill cloth beautifully embroidered in the rich blues and reds of oriental patterns—the high collar, long tight sleeve and straight narrow silhouette giving the costume that trimness and chic which American women so much like in tailored clothes.

Note that the waistline is somewhat long, the apron tunic is entirely flat, and the back of the skirt is also free of any gathering, an effect which of course only a slender or well corseted figure can wear.

Sir Walter and the Spud

IN Ireland, they still point to the place where Sir Walter Raleigh planted the potatoes he brought with him from America. The venturous knight was much impressed with the edible qualities of potatoes and touted them highly to his friends. But in spite of his efforts to popularize the spud,it was half a century or more before it became an article of general consumption abroad.

Today, a new food product becomes nationally known almost overnight. Modern methods of distribution quickly place it in thousands of stores. Advertising tells the public about it in the newspapers. People try it, like it, and shortly it is in general use throughout the country.

By the same means American manufacturers—through advertising—are putting within your reach many of the boons of modern life. Without advertising, we would lack many of the comforts and conveniences that go to make life what it is in this year of grace.
